Griffin Claims Social Security In Breakdown

WASHINGTON (AP) — A virtual breakdown in Social Security Administration processing of new claims was charged today by Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich.

A tremendous backlog of new claims, he said, is awaiting final action and claimants are being left dangling for as long as nine months after filing for benefits. "I discovered this situation after being flooded with letters from retired people applying for benefits," Griffin said in a statement.

"A retiree who lives in Highland Park informed me that his wife had applied for social security benefits last December and still has not received her first benefit check.

Upon checking with the Social Security Administration, I was told there is a backlog of 12,000 cases in the Chicago payment center, which serves Michigan."

Spokesmen here told him, Griffin said, the delay in the Highland Park case is "quite the prevailing thing right now."

"The excuse given," Griffin said, "was that the delay was due to increased work load caused by medicare and other amendments to the Social Security laws."

"When I asked whether they were understaffed, they said the staff had been increased by 9,000 but these people did not have sufficient experience to cope with the number of claims the administration has been receiving."

Griffin complained that if it takes nine months to process a claim, he can only conclude that the Social Security Administration is doing a poor job and that the new claims are getting lost on some of the 9,000 new desks.

U.N. Assembly Hears Marcos

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Philippine President Ferdinand E. Marcos was expected to call for a negotiated peace in Viet Nam in a speech today to the U.N. General Assembly.

"I have always said the U.N. should intervene in the war in Viet Nam to bring about a dialogue," Marcos told newsmen at a reception.

He added, however, that he would only "refer to it in passing" in his assembly speech and would propose nothing specific. Marcos said the Philippines, Malaysia and Thailand are still trying to promote an Asian conference to encourage negotiations although North Viet Nam, the Viet Cong and Communist China have rejected the proposal.

Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman of Thailand told newsmen support for such a conference is growing. He said there are "indications that the Communists are beginning to think again and are beginning to realize that they can't afford to disregard Asian public opinion."

Although the war in Viet Nam is not on the agenda for the assembly's 21st session, it was the No. 1 topic in speeches at the opening of the session Tuesday.

C&H Plans Mine For Hills Creek Copper

CALUMET (AP)—A go-ahead to mine a vast new lode of copper ore in Michigan's Upper Peninsula was given Calumet & Hecla Inc. Tuesday by the firm's board of directors.

C.C. Jung, board chairman, said directors approved the project and ordered preparation of engineering, manpower and financing plans.

The board acted after reviewing a feasibility study which estimated the lode contains 70 billion pounds of copper ore. The study, by Bechtel Corp., indicated the firm could mine the lode at the rate of 50 million pounds a year.

Calumet & Hecla, second largest copper producer in the Upper Peninsula, sparked a hectic period on the New York Stock Exchange last April when it announced discovery of the lode.

The firm's stock shot up more than $25 a share, causing the exchange to suspend trading on Calumet & Hecla shares for six days.

The lode is located in what the firm calls the Hills Creek project, near Calumet in the Keweenaw Peninsula jutting into Lake Superior.

The copper find brightened prospects for the future economy of the Calumet area, a lightly populated region in the northernmost part of Upper Michigan.

Calumet & Hecla, whose headquarters are in Evanston, Ill., employs 1,300 miners in seven mines around Calumet. Four of the mines are old, marginal operations.

The firm said about 10 percent of new lode is on land leased from Copper Range Co., the area's biggest copper producer.

Copper Range last fall announced it had discovered its reserves were twice the 300 million tons originally estimated. The firm has begun a $85 million expansion program designed to double its production.

Copper Range employs about 1,800 miners at its White Pine mine.

The Bechtel study indicated it would take more than five years to develop a mine and processing plant at the Hills Creek site.

Kenilworth, Ill. (AP) — Authorities investigating the slaying of Valerie Percy disclosed today a possible lead volunteered by a Chicago cab driver.

Police said the driver, Leo Yancy, 44, told them a fare in his cab Sunday morning resembled a man in a published picture of a suspect sought for an attack on a young woman in Evanston. The man in the picture also is regarded by authorities as a possible suspect in the Percy case.

Valerie, 21, daughter of Republican leader Charles H. Percy, was found stabbed and beaten to death in the bedroom of the family home in Kenilworth Sunday morning. Evanston, like Kenilworth, is a North Shore suburb of Chicago.

Yancy told police he drove the man to Glenview, also a North Shore suburb. Details of the cab driver's statement, along with his name and address, were sent to Capt. Maurice Higgins, head of the state's attorney's corps of investigators.

To Drag Lake
Kenilworth police, who are coordinating the murder investigation, planned to drag Lake Michigan near the Percy home today to find possible clues. Chief Robert Daley said his men would use the Kenilworth police boat and would be aided by the Coast Guard.

Meanwhile, a threat to murder Percy and other top Republicans came to light as investigators pressed their hunt for the killer.

The existence of the letter containing the threat to Percy and other politicians was revealed by Illinois State Sen. W. Russell Arrington of Evanston, Republican leader of the Senate.

The letter, mailed in May, threatened Percy and other political figures with a "one-way ride."

Daley said he will question persons who applied for work in Percy's campaign to unseat Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., and who were not accepted. Daley said Percy had rejected reports that he had barred several former campaign aides from the family home.

Memorial Services
The Percy family and 300 relatives and friends attended memorial services Tuesday for Valerie. Her body was cremated.

"We don't have anyone we could classify as a suspect," said Daley. He said that the scores of investigators, including the FBI and detectives from the Chicago Police Department,

Marines Take Fortified Red Village Today

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Marines today captured a fortified village just south of the demilitarized zone from North Vietnamese regulars who for more than four days defied hard ground and air attacks, a U.S. spokesman announced.

Flame-throwing tanks were called in Tuesday to help Leatherneck riflemen, artillery and jets blast the North Vietnamese in Gia Binh, only 300 yards south of the zone.

No other details were immediately available in Saigon of the capture of the village.

As the Marines took Gia Binh, U.S. B52 bombers and Phantom jets returned to the demilitarized zone and pounded Red positions inside and below the area.

The eight-engine bombers from Guam unloaded tons of explosives about a mile below the zone and near the area of fighting between the Marines and South Viet Nam's 224B Division.

The F4C Phantoms hammered at three Communist storage areas inside the six-mile-wide zone. Pilots reported setting two areas ablaze and wrecking buildings in the third.

Navy planes attacked a camouflaged North Vietnamese torpedo boat with 500-pound bombs and rockets off Haiphong Tuesday. Pilots said they split the craft apart and set it aflame.

The boat sank 32 miles northeast of North Viet Nam's major port.

The U.S. command announced the loss of one plane over North Viet Nam and one in the South.

In the North, a Navy F4B Phantom from the carrier Coral Sea, was shot down late Monday and the pilot was missing. It was the 368th plane lost over the North.

In the South, a Marine A4 Skyhawk caught fire and crashed 40 miles southwest of Da Nang Tuesday while flying a combat mission. Its pilot was also listed as missing.

Split Votes
WASHINGTON (AP)—Michigan's two members of the House Commerce Committee split in their votes as the committee Tuesday voted 17-14 to revive the so-called "Truth in Packaging" bill.

Rep. John D. Dingell, a Democrat, voted for revival. Rep. James Harvey, a Republican, voted against it.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. George Romney said Tuesday he had signed three bills to regulate operations of Michigan cemeteries.

One of the measures establishes a five-member State Cemetery Commission to register and inspect cemeteries. Cemeteries owned and operated by municipalities or religious institutions are exempt from the act.

The governor's office said the new commission would enact rules regulating burial, entombment and cremation, casket handling, public accommodations at cemeteries, records of grave locations and financial records.

The other bills require establishment of improvement or memorial funds by rural cemeteries and cemetery corporations and annual funds accounting of all proceeds from sales of burial rights.

Standards Cut To Draft Men In Salvage Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The military is lowering its mental standards in order to draft 20,000 men within nine months for special training and eventual regular service.

The move announced Tuesday is the first step in Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's plan to train for duty 100,000 men a year who now are being rejected for physical or mental reasons.

It is the third drop in minimum standards this year, and spokesmen said studies are under way to determine what revisions should be made in order to make another 20,000 men eligible by June 30. The plan is to reach its 100,000-a-year rate in 1968-69.

McNamara sees the special training as an arm in the administration's antipoverty program.

The change affects men drafted after Sept. 30. Those who score in the bottom rank of the general knowledge armed forces qualification test no longer will have to pass a general technical aptitude test which measures verbal and arithmetic reasoning.

They still must pass at least two of six other aptitude tests in fields of infantry, general maintenance, electronics, motor maintenance, clerical, and armor-artillery-engineer.

The Pentagon asked Selective Service to defer for now the re-screening of men who flunked under previous requirements.

These 2.4 million men are in a pool designated 1Y — disqualified except in case of war or national emergency.

Hart For Change In Seaway's Financing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress was urged today by Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., to reorganize the St. Lawrence Seaway's financial structure and thus head off an increase in tolls.

In testimony for a Senate Public Works subcommittee, Hart recommended passage of a bill, co-sponsored by himself and 14 other senators, that would change the Seaway's revenue bonds, held by the U.S. Treasury, into capital stock. The Treasury then would collect dividends instead of payments on the Seaway's debts.

Philip Hollar, vice president of the Association of American Railroads, is expected to testify in opposition to the bill, which would also prohibit an increase in toll charges.

Alan S. Boyd, undersecretary of commerce for transportation, testified Tuesday in opposition to the bill and in favor of the proposed 10 per cent increase in Seaway toll charges.

Hart said the measure is necessary because the Seaway has fallen behind in its payments to the point where a toll increase is being studied. He blamed low traffic volume in the early years of the waterway.

"This legislation would not renege on any promises," Hart said. "The Seaway Corp. will pay its debt as promised."

Under the bill, Hart said, payments to the government would be lower at the outset but then would take a sharp upturn as increased traffic was attracted.

Hart also urged the creation of a small, international committee of experts to study ways of keeping lockage charges on Canada's Deltand Canal at a minimum.

The Canadians, Hart said, are embarking on a huge expansion of the Welland and it might be for the United States to share the cost in order to have a voice in determining the canal's tolls.

"Expanded Seaway use is vital to the health of the Midwest and we will not increase the Seaway's customers by increasing its rates," he said.

Johnson Denies Tax Hike Plan
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said today that "No, I haven't indicated that" a tax increase may be coming to help bring government income and outgo into balance.

Yet Johnson repeated more or less what he had said Tuesday that gave rise to speculation that a boost might be in the offing.

He told a news "briefing" in the White House Cabinet room that when he passed bills have been passed by Congress, an effort will be made to see how they will be adjusted.

"Then we'll calculate our revenues, then we'll do our best to bring our revenues in line with our expenditures," he said.

Since nobody sees any real chance that revenues and spending can be balanced without a tax increase, it appeared to leave the way open for Johnson to ask for one later on. But any such request before the Nov. 8 election has been considered unlikely.

Johnson said there is enough money to run the Viet Nam war through June of 1967 under present appropriations.

Camera Robot Now Tumbling Through Space

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The apparent failure of a small rocket motor aboard America's Surveyor 2 spacecraft caused the three-legged lunar photographer to tumble uncontrolled in space, scientists said today.

The tumbling, at a rate of about one revolution per second, casts doubt on the chances for a successful mission, they said, unless the craft can be stabilized.

Two attempts at correcting the tumbling — by firing all three small vernier rockets for two seconds — failed, they said, when the No. 3 rocket didn't fire again.

Al Hibbs, staff scientist at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, said the failure of the No. 3 rocket engine was the apparent cause of the tumbling, which began when the rockets were fired for the mid-course maneuver.

Spacecraft On Course
"Consequently, engines one and two gave quite a tipping motion," said Hibbs.

The mid-course maneuver — a gentle roll in space followed by a short shot of rocket power — was meant to slow the craft enough to put it exactly on target on the moon.

After launch Tuesday from Cape Kennedy, Fla., scientists said the craft was on a good course for the moon's Sinus Medii — Central Bay. The course, they said, was "at least as good as Surveyor 1's, well within the capability of a mid-course correction to bring us to the programmed landing point."

The accuracy of the launch was confirmed by the brief — 9.8 seconds — burst of power needed to correct its trajectory. Without the correction, scientists said, Surveyor 2 would have missed its target by only three degrees.

Check Apollo Site
Sinus Medii, the programmed landing point, is right in the middle of the side of the moon visible to the earth. It is one of nine possible landing sites selected for the first Apollo astronauts when they head for the moon late in this decade. Surveyor 2's job is to take pictures of the site to determine if it is safe.

Surveyor 1, first of seven craft designed to land softly on the moon, touched down gently last June 1, about 800 miles west and slightly south of the Central Bay. It returned more than 11,000 excellent-quality pictures of the rough lunar surface.

Surveyor 2's 63-hour journey to the moon was scheduled to end with a gentle landing at 11:43:58 p.m. (EDT) Thursday. At that time, spokesmen said, the moon will be 241,027 miles from the earth.

Deputies Want Civil Service

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP) — The Macomb County Board of Supervisors voted Tuesday to put a proposal to include county sheriff's deputies under civil service on the Nov. 8 general election ballot. A petition from 95 of the county's 119 deputies sought the move because, they said, they do not now have job security.

Lindemer Attacks Kelley's Record As State Attorney

Lawrence B. Lindemer, a handsome Romney Republican who admits he is the underdog in his bid to unseat Frank Kelley as Attorney General of Michigan, said today Kelley has "exercised extremely bad judgment in the personal conduct of his office" and is "dragging his feet" on implementation of Michigan's new constitution.

possibly given the defendants a potent defensive weapon."

Lindemer said in view of recent court rulings on pre-trial publicity and its effect on a fair trial, Kelly should have remained silent.

At the same time, Lindemer attacked Kelley's record concerning the new constitution.

Failed To Lead

"He should be giving leadership and advice and counsel," Lindemer pointed out. "As it is he's dragging his feet in implementing the legal aspects. This reflects his basic opposition to the document."

Lindemer said that while Kelley had every right to campaign for the defeat of the new constitution, once it was approved it should be his responsibility to uphold it.

"I feel that the Attorney General's office is important in Michigan and that partisanship should be strictly a secondary matter," he said.

Lindemer said he is a staunch supporter of Gov. George Romney, while Kelley is politically antagonistic.

"I feel that if the people want to vote for Ferency for Governor, then they should vote for Kelley, but if they vote for Romney, then they should vote for Lindemer, too. Kelley has subverted his political antagonism for the past year and a half, but if he should be elected again I believe he will be under direct order from Lyndon Johnson and others to create as much embarrassment and harassment as he can, a technique at which he has shown great ability."

Talked Too Much

"I think he exercises extremely bad judgment in the personal conduct of his office," Lindemer said, citing first Kelley's last February visit to the Florida apartment of an alleged Mafia leader and his subsequent proliferation of excuse for being there and secondly his efforts to get newspaper publicity for himself in a meat packing case at Grand Rapids.

"He talked in detail about evidentiary matters which will not be a matter of record until the court hears the case," Lindemer said. "By doing this he has quite

Grand Jury An Effective Crime Fighting Device

By AL SANDNER

LANSING (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley says he has asked for more grand juries than any attorney general in Michigan history.

They're an effective tool against crime, he says, but they're cumbersome and expensive—and they're doing what he considers part of his job.

Kelley — like virtually every attorney general of either party before him — wants the power to subpoena witnesses and grant them immunity from criminal prosecution that might result from their testimony.

The Legislature this year — like virtually every Legislature before it — refused to grant the subpoena and immunity powers.

The four grand juries he has asked for in the past year have the powers—subpoena and immunity—that Kelley wants to "equalize the arsenal of organized crime."

Seek Power

Until and unless he gets these powers, he said, he intends to ask for grand juries any time he feels they are needed.

These, two in Wayne County, one in Oakland and one in Kent, were impeded to investigate allegations of organized crime and corruption in government.

As chief law enforcement officer of the state, Kelley feels such investigations are his primary responsibility.

"Attorneys general in 22 other states have these powers," he said. "These include all of the large states. Fortunately we do not have the problems of organized crime and government corruption that some other states have—but what we do have we don't want."

Other state agencies have subpoena power, Kelley says, while the law enforcement chief doesn't.

Fear Abuses

"Generally, I'd say it's because they fear abuses by an individual who would use it for witch hunts," Kelley said.

Legislative leaders admit off the record that, while they generally favor the idea, they're afraid of potential abuses — no matter what the party of the attorney general.

"This is potentially a tremendous political tool to put in the hands of a man who is a highly political animal," one said. "The attorney general, after all, is nominated at a political convention and is one of his party's major statewide candidates."

"Even being subpoenaed by the attorney general could do a tremendous amount of political damage to an innocent party—whether anything was proven later or not," he added.

"There are inherent dangers which are not present in granting such power to the judiciary," he said.

As for the agencies' power of subpoena, he added, they do not involve criminal proceedings, as the attorney general's would.

Safeguards

Leaders in the House—where subpoena and immunity bills failed to come out of the Judiciary Committee this year — say they would favor such powers with safeguards.

Kelley has a proposal he hopes will meet the safeguard requirement. He proposes the attorney general be allowed to petition a Circuit or Probate court for a subpoena, stating the name of the person to be subpoenaed and the reason he wants it.

"The court would have the discretionary power to grant or reject the request," Kelley said. "If he granted it, the attorney general's questioning under the subpoena would be limited to the subject matter stated in the request to the judge. It would not be a blanket subpoena."

The autopsy was conducted by Dr. Stephen J. Sheehy, medical examiner for Arlington County, Va.

Tuesday night's announcement of the findings did not identify the drug involved or give other details.

A spokesman for the family said James Moyers had been in severe pain since the summer of 1965, when doctors learned that he was suffering from cancer.

Drug Overdose Blamed In Death Of J. H. Moyers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Autopsy findings attribute the death of James H. Moyers, an assistant to President Johnson, to an overdose of medically prescribed drugs.

Moyers, 39, died Saturday at his home in nearby McLean, Va. He was a brother of White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers.

The autopsy was conducted by Dr. Stephen J. Sheehy, medical examiner for Arlington County, Va.

Tuesday night's announcement of the findings did not identify the drug involved or give other details.

A spokesman for the family said James Moyers had been in severe pain since the summer of 1965, when doctors learned that he was suffering from cancer.

REA Helps In Inflation Fight

LANSING (AP)—Rural electrical systems have helped hold down the price of food, the administrator of the Federal Rural Electrification Administration (REA) said Tuesday.

The Washington official, Norman M. Clapp, addressed a four-state regional conference of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association here.

He said REA-financed rural systems have reported more than 500 rate reductions with total annual consumer savings of over $17 million.

"All this has been a substantial contribution in the mounting battle to keep consumer prices down," Clapp said. "It has promoted greater efficiencies in farm production with benefits to both farmer and consumer."

Loan Fund Of Indians Doubled

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has signed a bill doubling the size of a loan fund to be used by Indian tribes for financing land claims against the government, the White House announced Tuesday. The bill increases the fund from $500,000 to $1.8 million.

The loans are for preparation of suits for compensation for lands taken by the government in the 1800s.

Ferency Wants Housing Effort

By The Associated Press

Democratic gubernatorial candidate Zolton Ferency called today for a major state effort, including grants of money, to provide low-cost housing.

Ferency said "factory workers and their families arriving in the many industrial towns across our state are being forced to live in tents and sleep in their cars because of the lack of housing."

His schedule today called for a meeting with the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants, a news conference and a live radio interview.

Ferency's opponent for fall election, Republican Gov. George Romney, appeared Tuesday night on a Flint television program in which listeners phoned in questions.

Appearing with Romney was Sen. Robert P. Griffin who is running for election to the U. S. Senate this fall again Democrat G. Mennen Williams.

Williams, who Tuesday discussed problems of poverty in Detroit with Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh, was scheduled to tour other sections of the Motor City today.

Meanwhile, Romney's wife, Lenore, announced establishment of a women's group to campaign for election of her husband, Griffin, Lt. Gov. William Milliken and other GOP candidates.

Mrs. Romney, who titled the group "WOW" for "Women Out Working," said she hoped to enroll 10,000 women to campaign for Republicans in coffee klatches and at community meetings.

Canadians Seek Uniform Car Code For N. America

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Canadian officials have called for a uniform North American vehicle code in their talks at the annual conference of the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators.

"Our feelings on uniformity are so strong," said Dr. Ferdinand Lizotte, minister of transport and communications for Quebec, Tuesday, "that the ministers of all 10 provinces have agreed to meet in Toronto next month to discuss uniformity in highway traffic legislation and related matters, including road safety."

He said there is a need for standardizing of auto equipment, but that it is more necessary drivers realize the physical limits of their vehicles.

DETROIT (AP) — A nursing home, designed to provide general hospital services for the elderly in addition to nursing care, has opened in Detroit. The Providence Nursing Home has 300 beds and most facilities of a hospital except for an operating room.

Johnson Signs Interest Curb

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed into law today a bill aimed at stemming the rise in interest rates. Johnson called it "a new weapon to preserve the strength of our economy."

Terminating the interest spiral one of the most dangerous threats to a sound economy, Johnson said action was needed because, "In our banking community, healthy competition has given way to a fierce race."

At the same time, the President promised to use monetary and fiscal weapons to avoid runaway inflation.

And he said that, as soon as he has the necessary facts on which to base a judgment of possible further action, he would promptly send recommendations to Congress. This could embrace a plan to raise income taxes, though Johnson did not mention that possibility.

The bill signed today gives the Federal Reserve Board authority for one-year to order different interest levels on bank deposits considering such factors as the size of deposits and conditions in different parts of the country.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board is given similar authority to govern interest paid by savings and loan associations. The board previously could control interest rates only indirectly.

The measure also authorizes the Federal Reserve Board to boost from 6 to 10 per cent the monetary reserves member banks must maintain against time deposits. This provision is designed to restrain lending.

Katzenbach To Get Ball's Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson announced today that Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach will resign to become undersecretary of state.

Katzenbach will succeed George W. Ball, who is leaving government service.

Johnson's selection of Katzenbach immediately raised speculation that he was putting into State's No. 2 position a man capable of possibly succeeding Secretary of State Dean Rusk someday.

Asked about a successor to Katzenbach as attorney general, Johnson said, "I haven't reached a decision on that yet."

Soviets Calling Red China Purge Peoples' Tragedy

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government said Tuesday what is taking place in Red China is a "tragedy for the Chinese people" but added that in the long run "healthy forces" of the Communist party will return the Chinese mainland to the true path of Marxist-Leninist ideas.

The government newspaper Izvestia said the so-called great proletarian cultural revolution — or purge—now under way in Red China is an unprecedented discredit to the ideas of Marx and Lenin, founders of modern communism. The Chinese accuse the Russians of revising those ideas and warning up to the West.

Izvestia charged that the policy of the Chinese leadership is helping the enemies of communism and causing "decisive protest" on the part of most other Communist parties.

1967 Cars Cost More In Money

DETROIT (AP)—It is official now that new car buyers are going to dig deeper into their pocketbooks when they buy a new 1967 car.

Ford Motor Co. set the pattern Tuesday when it became the first U.S. auto firm to list new prices.

General Motors and Chrysler were expected to follow suit—perhaps as early as today—with American Motors to follow soon.

The size of the price increase depended on your viewpoint.

Ford's official release said the increases averaged $25 or about 1 per cent for the entire Ford line.

A comparison of price tags on 1966 and 1967 Ford Motor Co. products without regard for any factor but money showed the increases averaged $113 or about 4 per cent.

The Ford announcement, which touched off Detroit's annual numbers game of trying to figure out auto price trends, was a complicated one.

The company made some items, optional on 1966 cars at extra cost, standard equipment this time. Most of them were in the safety field although a few did include costly items such as automatic transmissions.

Some of 1966's standard items were made optional this time around.

That made it a bit difficult for the average buyer to figure out exactly how much more he would pay for a new 1967, a virtual duplicate of his 1966 model insofar as equipment and accessories were concerned.

Ford expressed belief the industry, which contended it had held the price line since 1957, had done it again. Ford said, "For the eighth consecutive year, Ford Motor Co. passenger car prices have been adjusted only to reflect a portion of the added product value."

A year ago when the auto industry reshuffled its prices after the excise tax had been cut and some options added to the 1966 cars as standard equipment, Ford said 1966 prices "would be lower than those for comparably equipped 1965 models."

The words "comparably equipped" were the key ones in an argument that went on for several months over whether auto prices had in actuality been raised. The argument appeared certain to be resumed now that the '67's are at hand.

Pickets Greet Mrs. Johnson

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Pickets and politics loomed large as the nation's First Lady pursued culture and beauty on a two-day California visit.

Some 300 chanting, placard-waving anti-Viet Nam demonstrators awaited Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson at the opening Tuesday night of the San Francisco Opera.

"Hey, hey, LBJ! How many kids did you kill today?" they yelled over and over.

Police held them back at the carriage entrance amid limousines and formally clad first nighters.

Mrs. Johnson entered via another entrance with a Secret Service escort, where she walked past about 30 pickets in her flowing gold brocade and green chiffon gown, paying no attention and displaying a set smile.

The pickets' placards directed harsh words at the First Lady, who has espoused a cause of beautification across the country.

"Beautify Viet Nam, bring U.S. troops home," said one sign.

President Backs Pope's Peace Bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said today "we will do anything we can" to encourage Pope Paul's new bid for peace in Viet Nam and to support any possible negotiations for a peace settlement.

Pope Paul VI called earlier this week for prayers for peace during October.

"We seek peace," Johnson said today. "We'd like to see this thing end tomorrow. We'd rather sit down and talk this thing out than fight it out."

Taiwan Report:

Brien Brothers, Mission Priests Home On Leave

The island of Taiwan (Formosa) is a land of contrasts and contradiction, the Revs. Peter and Paul Brien of Escanaba told the Rotary Club at its meeting at the House of Ludington Tuesday noon.

Taiwan is about the size of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan but it has an exploding population in excess of 13 million; there is compulsory military service but the people are mostly small farmers more concerned with sustaining their families than with war.

The twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur P. Brien of 1812 S. 16th St. are graduates of St. Joseph's School in Escanaba, of the Salvatorian Seminary and Maryknoll Seminary, and have been in Taiwan for six years with the Catholic Foreign Mission Society of America.

Many Changes

They were introduced at the Rotary Club by John L. Greene, program chairman. The meeting was conducted by Isadore Stein, the club president.

Fr. Peter Brien said they felt fortunate and happy in being assigned to Taiwan and that they will return there in January.

In the six years they have been in Taiwan they have noted many changes indicating an improved economy, he said. Today's Taiwanese family has three or four bicycles, whereas they had none before. There are few automobiles, mostly taxis.

The Taiwanese are wearing more modern (Western) clothing, buildings of brick are replacing the bamboo structures, there is even a department store several stories high in Tainan. But the "departments" in the store also serve as the living quarters for the several proprietors.

Population Boom
Taiwan is an island about 240 miles long and is only 90 miles from the coast of Red China. Back in 1949 about two million Nationalist Chinese came to the island, then Formosa, accompanying Chiang Kai-shek.

Now the island has 13 million people, the highest population density in the world, and the population continues to increase rapidly. To provide for the needs of the growing population the economy is becoming more industrialized.

"The United States has aided the people and they are grateful," reported Fr. Peter. "Now they are almost at the point of making their own way."

The climate is like that of Florida and California, there was frost but once in the six years the Brien brothers have been in Taiwan, and individual farm plots are small — about the size of a large room. This makes the use of tractors and other large farm equipment impracticable.

Boys Preferred
Fr. Paul said there is no middle class in Taiwan, only high and low, although a "lower middle class" is now developing.

The family social structure is strong, sons are responsible to and are controlled by the father even as adults, and "there's no doubt who wears the pants in the family," he said.

Boys are given preference in schooling. Education is compulsory to the 8th grade and then competitive examinations are held to qualify young people for higher schooling. School hours are long and sometimes students return for evening classes.

Most of the people are Buddhists who "have many gods and superstitions." There are about 400,000 Christians, Catholic and Protestant.

The economic outlook, for Taiwan is good with more education, Westernization and prosperity in prospect, the Rotarians were told.

Bay de Noc Gem Mineral Club To Get Together

The Bay de Noc Gem and Mineral club will hold its fall get-together, 7:30 p. m. Thursday, Sept. 22 at the Senior High School. Those attending are asked to use the northeast entrance.

Members are asked to bring rock and mineral specimens or cabochons for display. Trading specimens or any pieces you have for show should be labeled with proper names.

President John Lasnoski says there will be a set of slides from the Mid West Federation. These slides on petrified wood should be of interest to all rock hounds and guests in the area. Guests are always welcome.

Refreshments will be served. Mr. Durham, Mrs. Noble and Mr. Bowen will furnish door prizes.

Bark River

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hanson of Norway are the parents of a son, Robert William, born Wednesday, Sept. 14, at 5:30 p. m. in the Anderson Memorial Hospital of Norway. The infant weighed 7 pounds 12 ounces and is the first child. The mother is the former Sally Myrner of Norway and the father is the son of Mrs. Eva Hanson of Powers.

Mrs. Betty Olson and son, Thomas, drove to Milwaukee Monday where Thomas will enter the U. S. Air Force. While in Milwaukee they will visit with Mrs. Robert Adams, formerly of Bark River.

Mrs. Martin Kvarciany returned Monday from a five day stay in Butler, Wis. with her son and his family, the David Kvarciany.

Bark River Salem Lutheran Church members are having a Pot Luck Welcoming Dinner honoring Pastor Charles Beckingham and family, Sunday, Sept. 25, at 12 noon.

The Area Policy Advisory Board of the local Community Action Center will hold a meeting Tuesday, Sept. 27, at the Bark River-Harris Elementary School at 7:30 p. m. Henry W. Boyle, chairman, will conduct the meeting.

Trustys Escape

IONIA (AP)—Two trustys escaped from the Ionia Reformatory Sunday night. Police identified them as James McCullough, 21, serving a one to five year term for carrying a concealed weapon in Oakland County, and John Sutton, 22, serving two to four years from Wayne County for felonious assault.

U.P. Car Ferry Service Halted

MENOMINEE—The Ann Arbor Division of the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton railroad announced that car ferry service across Lake Michigan from Manistique and Menominee has been suspended for repairs to company ships.

A spokesman for the railroad said the A. K. Atkinson, one of the company's three boats, is going into the shipyard at Manitowoc this week for repairs. When the Atkinson is returned to service, the ferry Green Bay will go into the shipyard for its annual inspection.

Evert Erickson, chief clerk at Frankfort, said this is expected to take from three to five weeks.

Boats have been traveling between Manistique and Frankfort all summer. Rail shipments during the suspension of service will be diverted around Lake Michigan and to Manitowoc, which is also served by Ann Arbor car ferries from Frankfort.

Pincrest Awards Certificates To 7 Nurses Aides

Seven Nurse Aides of Pincrest Medical Care Facility, Powers, were awarded certificates and pins after completing a 40 hour In Service Training Course on Nursing Procedures under the directorship of Mrs. Donald VanEnkevort R. N., director of Nursing Services.

Graduation ceremonies were held Wednesday, Sept. 14, followed by a coffee social for the staff.

Those receiving certificates were Miss Mary Ann Hall of Iron River, Mrs. Allan Smith of Bark River, Miss Trudie Rumpf of Iron Mountain, Miss Donna Plunger of Hermansville, Miss Josephine Dura of Marinette, Miss Susan Buntjer of Ensign, and Miss Geraldine Dabb of Kingsford.

Miss Jacqueline Dittich is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dittich, Bark River, Rte. 1.

She is one of 100 outstanding teen-age girls from all over the country, chosen from Farm Journal's 3,000,000 families of readers. She is active in FTA, Student Council and 4-H Club.

Quitting Business Now Up To Board

PETOSKEY (AP)—The strike-cooperated Petoskey Manufacturing Co. announced Tuesday its board of directors would meet Friday to decide whether to quit business. Erwin Lemble, plant manager, said the company has lost 60 to 70 per cent of its business because of a United Auto Workers union strike. The strike began Sept. 1. The company makes ornamental and decorative hardware for cars. It employs some 60 workers. The company and UAW local have been unable to come to terms on a wage increase for a new contract.

Trenary

Services will be held at the First Lutheran Church in Trenary at 7:30 p. m. Sunday, Sept. 25. During the service there will be special recognition of Sunday School leaders and teachers. There will be songs by the children and families are urged to attend.

Following the service there will be a Pot Luck Supper in the dining room.

Janis Dombrovskis is the pastor.

Fall Fishing:

Some Walleyes Taken From Bay

Leaves are beginning to turn color along the Lake Superior shores, and in Little Bay de Noc fishermen are making a few nice catches of walleyes off Gladstone, reports Robert W. Timmer, Escanaba District law supervisor, Conservation Department.

A Marquette fishermen caught one walleye that weighed nine pounds and four ounces in the Gladstone area.

In the Gwin area a few rainbow were taken from Johnson Lake in Section 27, T45N-R25W, by fishing at night. Some nice northern pike were taken from Cataract Basin in Sec. 11, T45N-R26W, by still fishing with bait.

No concentration of fishermen is noted anywhere in the area.

Alger County's Chatham area has nice catches of northern pike taken on AuTrain Lake by trolling with live minnows. One 10 pound northern pike was caught and several were in the 24-26 inch class. Nice walleye catches were made by trolling with nightcrawler harness and good catches of perch on live minnows and worms, also on AuTrain Lake.

Catches of Menominee whitefish at the mouth of Rock River, using small hooks and worms, were reported.

Pan fishing for perch, bluegills, sunfish, and rock bass very good and some good catches of largemouth bass taken on feathered jigs and bucktailed streamers, all from the AuTrain Basin.

Good catches of northern pike were made on Sixteen Mile Lake using live bait both by trolling and still fishing.

Blood Program Short 25 Units

The current visit of the Red Cross bloodmobile to Delta County started its second day 25 units short in the hoped-for total of 307 units.

At Gladstone on Tuesday, opening day of the procurement clinic, 52 units were received. The quota for the day was 77.

Only 14 of the 24 donors who had made appointments kept them, but with walk-ins the total number of donors reporting was 54. Two were rejected, however, and the collection was 52 units.

Gladstone donors who were unable to be at the bloodmobile Tuesday may visit the bloodmobile at the Teamsters Hall in Escanaba before 7:30 tonight.

On Thursday, final day of the clinic, the hours at the Teamsters Hall location of the bloodmobile are from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m.

The quota for today and Thursday is 115 units daily.

At Gladstone the three award winners were Dwayne Burak, who is a several-gallon donor; Robert Tardiff and Mrs. Clinton Groos.

Find Distemper Among Growing Number Of Dogs

There has been an increase of distemper in the dogs of the area. This is a very serious disease causing death in most instances, said Dr. Mary L. Crestens, District Health director.

This virus is spread much like the common cold, but indirect transmission through contaminated objects is possible also. Symptoms of distemper include fever, red runny eyes, loss of appetite, diarrhea often with blood stained stool, sneezing and coughing. Nervous complications may occur too. These include stiffening of the legs and body, and foaming at the mouth.

It is very important that dogs be confined, as many of the present cases have been limited to an area where a sick animal has been allowed to roam. Vaccination is available for distemper at local veterinary offices, she said.

Hospital

M. J. Boyle has been discharged from St. Francis Hospital and is now a patient at Pine Haven Nursing Home in Gladstone.

Mrs. John M. Whitney, Soo Hill, has been admitted to St. Luke's Hospital, Marquette, where she will undergo surgery, Thursday.

Robert Stephens, 1326 Michigan Ave., Gladstone, underwent surgery today on his arm at St. Luke's Hospital, Marquette. His room number is 184.

Food Retailer Nets Only 1%

LANSING (AP)—The net profit for retail food dealers averages only one per cent, says the Michigan Food Dealers Association, which will discuss next week how to explain rising food prices to the customer.

More than 500 persons are expected for the Association's annual convention Sept. 25-28 at Boyne City.

Don Taylor, executive director of the association, said consumers tend to blame grocers for rising food prices, but actually the food dealer's one per cent net profit is the smallest in the retail industry.

"Because the retail food business is the largest industry in the state and the dollar volume is huge, people think profits are large," Taylor said.

He said behind the price rises are demands from the farmer for higher prices, demands of labor in the food industry for increased wages and more government regulation of the industry.

Looks Like Success

So far, the conservation story of the year in Michigan has been the apparently spectacular success of the introduction of coho salmon in this state. Hoping to develop a new sport fish in the state and to revitalize the Great Lakes fishery, the Michigan Conservation Department last spring planted 800,000 coho "smolts" of four to six inches in length in the Platte River and Bear Creek, northern Lower Peninsula tributaries of Lake Michigan, and the Big Huron River, a Lake Superior tributary that flows through northern Baraga and Marquette Counties.

During the past month a relatively large number of cohos have been recovered, and those taken from Lake Michigan waters and the Lower Peninsula streams have shown almost unbelievable growth. The largest coho reported taken to date measured 23 and a half inches (from the four to six-inch length at planting) and weighed six pounds, six ounces. It was caught in a commercial fisherman's net offshore from Manistee last week. A four-pound, 10-ounce coho was taken the week before by a commercial fisherman from Manistique off the Upper Peninsula shore of Lake Michigan.

In Lake Superior 18 cohos were taken earlier this month in herring nets offshore from Grand Marais, Minn., undoubtedly fish that were released in the Big Huron last April. They averaged only 13 inches in length and nine ounces in weight. The slower growth rate of the Lake Superior cohos is attributed to the lake's colder water and possibly to a less abundant food supply.

Sport fishermen also have connected on cohos in Lower Peninsula streams. Since early this month more than a dozen of these salmon have been caught by sport anglers in Bear Creek and the Manistee and Platte Rivers.

One of the developments that makes the coho story particularly pleasing is that the new fish species seems to be feeding heavily on the alewife, a trash fish that has erupted in population in Lake Michigan. (Fred W. Rea, well-known Detroit fly designer, has designed a fly to imitate an alewife.)

Thus the coho introduction not only promises to provide Michigan with an exciting new sport fishing species but also to make some inroads into the alewife population. And the coho experiment seems to have been so successful that it has spurred the conservation department into expanding its fish introduction program by introducing another salmon — the chinook — to Michigan waters.

Dr. Wayne Tody, chief of the department's fish division, already has arranged for the purchase of a million chinook salmon eggs from Western states for delivery this fall. When they have hatched they probably will be released in the Manistee and Muskegon Rivers.

In the West, chinook (or king) salmon average upwards of 20 pounds, with some weighing as much as 80 or 90 — far larger than the coho salmon. Chinooks would thrive well with cohos and steelheads, which already have been established in Michigan waters.

Fisheries officials from Washington and Oregon today are completing a five-day tour of Michigan to size up salmon and steelhead spawning streams and hatchery facilities. Purpose of their inspection is to give Michigan fisheries men the benefit of Western hatchery know-how to help them gear up to full-scale production of salmon and steelheads.

All in all, it looks as though 1966 will be remembered as a year of exceptional progress in Michigan's fishery program.

Export Opportunity

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON — (NEA) — If the Agriculture Department would think more daringly about increasing exports and less bureaucratically about crop controls, the United States would be better off and the United States' balance of payments problem less serious.

Studies of foreign markets indicate that in the next decade the United States farmer should be able to steadily increase his exports on a wide front. That is, he will be able to do this if his competitive position is not destroyed by government restrictions.

World shortages of food and other agricultural products are going to get worse in the late 1960s and early 1970s.

The population in a host of countries is growing faster than their ability to increase food production.

Take Japan as an outstanding example. Forecasts of Japan's economic growth indicate that the country is in a position to increase imports of basic American agricultural crops over all by 3 percent a year.

Japan is now the No. 1 foreign market for United States agricultural products.

Questions And Answers

Q—How many horses have won America's Triple Crown?
A—Only eight. Citation was the last to do it, in 1948.

Q—What was the original salary of the president of the United States?
A—The first Congress fixed the salary at $25,000 a year.

Q—Who was the first native inhabitant of the Americas to be canonized?
A—The first Catholic saint of the Americas was Rosa of Lima, Peru, canonized in 1871.

Q—How many eclipses of the sun can there be in one year?
A—As many as five eclipses in one year. There must be at least two and the usual number is four.

Some Priorities For Happiness

Never To Late To Make Friends

By PERCY HANSEN

A happy person is one who has many friends. This is especially true of those who have reached the ages of 50, 60, 70 or 80. It is also true that the person who from childhood through the teen ages and into maturity has made new friends easily will find it equally easy to acquire new and stimulating acquaintances as he becomes older.

In childhood the making of new friends requires no particular effort on the part of the child.

It is when one's family is grown and one retires from active participation in business or industry that the acquisition of new friends slows down or ceases entirely. This is true whether one moves to a new location or remains in the home he has occupied for many years. If he has retired from regular employment, he will gradually lose contact with his former companions.

At this period of life it is, however, especially necessary to acquire new friends. It is obvious, for example, that the person who reaches the age of 70 years will have lost at least one-half of his former associates by death, regardless of whether he has spent his life in one community or has moved several times. Mortality tables show that only approximately 50 percent of people reach the age of 70. Only one out of every three persons, on the average, reaches the age of 80.

If the elderly are to enjoy life to its fullest, they must acquire new friends along with new interests.

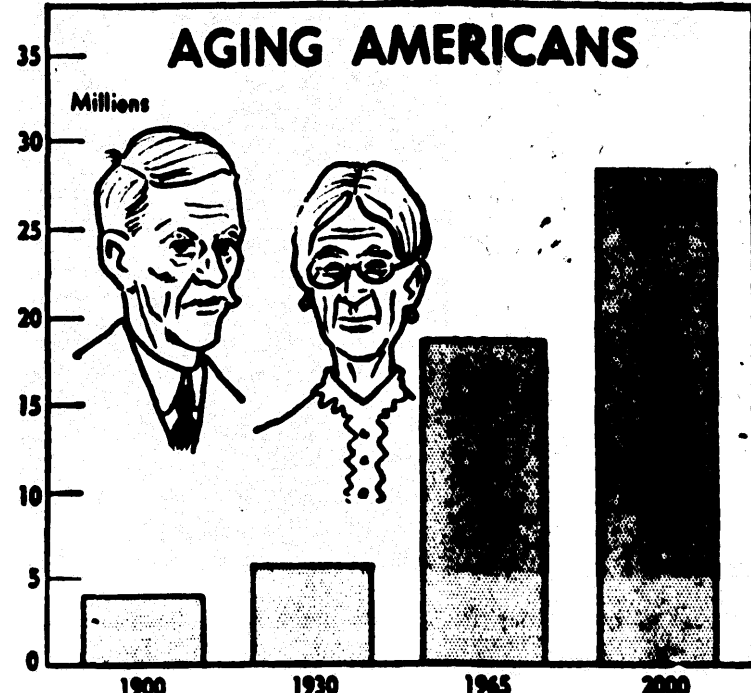

Churches, neighborhood civic clubs and other organizations which include the young and middle-aged in their memberships will be productive of the type of friendships which the aging need.

The elderly need the inspiration of children and younger people quite as much as children and young people need the friendship and guidance of adults. The segregation of the elderly is as unnatural and reprehensible as is the segregation of children.

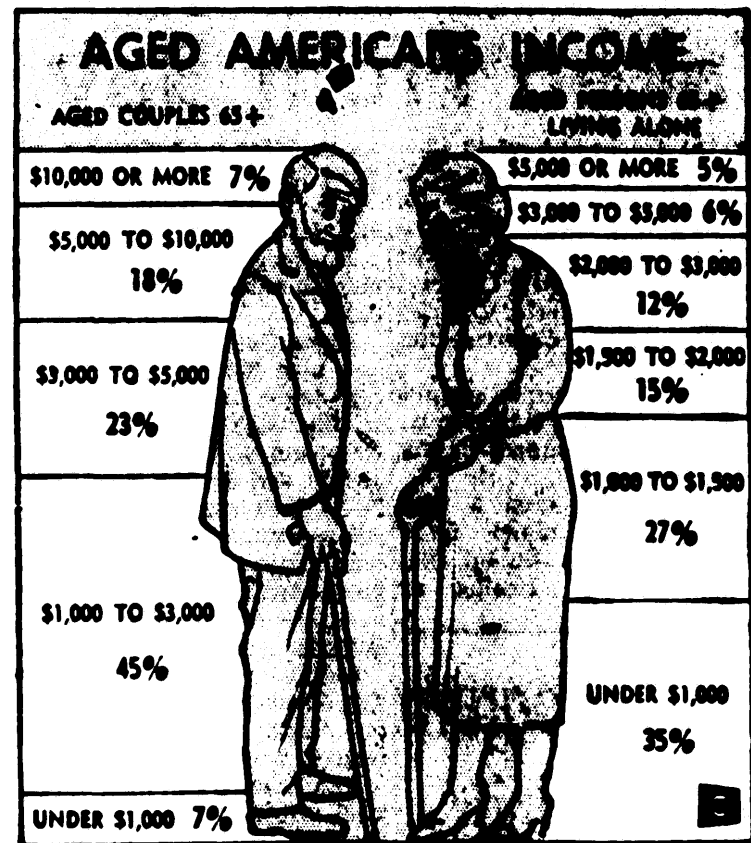

Just as very young children should make friends with older children and adults, so elderly people should see their friends among all age groups. The idea that any age group enjoys only the companionship of others of the same age has been disproved scores of times.

Perhaps the best possible approach to the problem of making new friends is to look for someone, one more alone than you are, perhaps, whom you can help. Do something for this lonely person—it may be but a friendly visit—and you will nearly always find you have a new friend. Continue in this friendly spirit and you will add to your joy and happiness as you accumulate new friends and new interests.

One of the most common reasons why many elderly people

America's older population has grown rapidly during the 20th century, census figures show. The percentage of women among the elderly also has been increasing steadily. In 1900, there were 98 women to 100 men 65 or older. In 1945 the ratio was 129 women to 100 men and in 1960 it is expected to be 148 to 100.

Only a minority of the nation's elderly can be considered in comfortable financial circumstances. Of aged couples, 75 percent have annual incomes under $5,000 and 77 percent of older persons living alone must get by on $2,000 or less.

ple and not a few who are middle-aged or younger are not fully acceptable in the home and in society and are unpopular in industry is that they mistake a serious fault for a positive virtue.

Often the offender even brags about it. Employers, in explaining why they do not hire older people, call it "inflexibility." Persons who boast about it call it "a strong will," "independence," having "a mind of my own" or even being "set in my ways."

The pitiful part of it is that most of the persons afflicted apparently feel that this ruinous fault is a desirable quality and that it is evidence of "a strong character." If this so-called "inflexibility" or "strong-mindedness" involved a moral issue it could be condoned or even lauded, but this is seldom, if ever, the case. Usually it is nothing more than a reluctance or refusal to consider the wishes or suggestions of others.

Recently we were favored by a visit from a friend with whom we had been closely associated for several years in

The Doctor Says:

Shock Survivors In Peril

By DR. WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT

Many people have the impression that if an electric shock doesn't kill you, you have nothing to worry about. Unfortunately there is mounting evidence that those who survive may incur serious injuries. There are a number of factors. The type of current is important. Other circumstances being equal, an alternating current is three or four times as dangerous as a direct current. Death may result from as little as 220 volts if it causes the heart to fibrillate. Although some persons survive exposure to several thousand volts, deaths from over 1,000 volts are caused by paralysis of the respiratory center in the brain.

Other important factors are the duration of contact with the current, the part of the body through which the current travels, electric resistance at the contact point and the victim's general health at the time of the accident.

The late effects of electric shock may be seen in the nervous system (paralysis or sensory disturbances) or the blood vessels (hemorrhage and clotting two weeks or more after the accident).

Recently Drs. L. B. Brinn and J. E. Moseley of New York observed a man who received a 2,500-volt shock that lasted about 30 seconds. He didn't pass

Mrs. Hansen suggested, "Maybe she was tired and just needed to get her rest. Older people do get tired more easily."

Our guest hesitated a moment, and then continued with an audible sigh: "No, she wasn't tired. You are being charitable. She sat up and watched television for over an hour after we got home. I guess she still thinks of me as a little boy and that she has to tell me what to do all of the time."

"The real reason she wanted to go home last night was because she demands the center of the stage. When we started to talk about other people she tried to switch the conversation back to herself, and when we wouldn't be switched, she insisted I take her home."

Regardless of how you start, the all-important thing is that if you have been thinking, acting, talking, walking, dressing and complaining like some older persons do, begin today to make the necessary changes in your mental and social attitudes. You will thus be impelled into actions which will give you the joy of accomplishment and the satisfaction of knowing you still are an integral part of the community in which you live.

25 YEARS AGO

Parking meters were the prime topic of concern at the council meeting. A representative demonstrated his machine and told the council that the meters could be installed on a six month trial plan.

Seen only on infrequent occasions, the beautiful Aurora Borealis, or northern lights, were clearly visible here on two nights.

50 YEARS AGO

According to a plan for re-naming the streets of Escanaba, adopted by the council, the name of Ludington street will remain unchanged and will be considered the "dividing" line between the thoroughfares running north and south on north and south sides of the city. They will be called streets and thoroughfares running east and west will be called avenues. East street, at the extreme eastern point of the city will be First street; Tilden Court, Second street; Smith Court, Third street and so on. Under the plan, Wells avenue will be First Ave. S.; Hale Street, Second Ave. S.; Market Street, First Ave. N.; Langley Street, Second Ave. N.

Ann Landers

Teacher Shocked By West Coast Spelling

Dear Ann Landers: I was interested in the letter from the aunt who complained because her nephew's thank-you note contained many misspelled words. That child was only 10 years old, so there's some excuse for him, but you should see what I am running into!

I am an English teacher who moved to the west coast from the east coast. I am shocked and distressed to discover that the 10th graders in California schools cannot spell as well as the eighth graders I taught back in Massachusetts.

You, Ann Landers, receive letters from teen-agers from every state in the Union. Will you please be good enough to tell me if you have noticed that the eastern teens spell much better than the western teens? Thank you.—MISS B

Dear Miss B: I have noticed that the spelling of teen-agers and adults alike is frightful. And geography has nothing to do with it.

In today's mail a Boston University student wrote to complain that her boy friend is "taking her for granite." She was very upset because she just learned she is "pregnate." The very next letter was from a Santa Barbara high school freshman who was "fifteen" years old. He was "greatful" for my advice.

So don't talk to me about spelling. Doll — eastern or western.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you printed a letter from a woman who complained that whenever she got behind the wheel of the car her husband criticized her driving and made her feel like an idiot.

I recognized myself as the husband. Ever since the day I saw our children covered with blood amid the broken glass and twisted steel I have hated careless drivers. Consequently, I have a compulsion to call such drivers to the attention of whoever happens to be at the wheel. The moron who hit us on that unforgettable day said he didn't see the stop sign.

Driving on a freeway today is as hazardous as fighting in Viet Nam. Anyone who remains silent because he doesn't want to hurt the driver's feelings is not courteous — he's crazy. Thank you for letting me have my say.—T. C.

Dear T. C.: I would not for a moment deny that your ar-

UFO Merely Almost Winner Flying Ants Proves Point With 'Glow'?

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Are some of those Unidentified Flying Objects recently sighted over parts of the United States merely flying ants or other insects with a "glow" on?

Norton T. Novitt, an amateur Denver scientist whose hobby is the study of the electric properties of insects, thinks it's highly possible. Not necessarily insects with a built-in glow, such as fireflies, but insects which have somehow attracted an electric charge so great that they give off lights.

In 20 years of UFO sighting reports other scientists have said the shiny-bodies insects might be mistaken during daylight for flying saucers.

But the glowing insect theory is original with Novitt, a scientific illustrator with the U. S. Geological Survey in Denver. And he believes it may account for a small part of the 7 per cent of UFOs which the Air Force admits it cannot explain.

It all started with Novitt three summers ago when he was a member of a Denver moonwatch team, one of the groups of volunteers around the country who help the National Aeronautics and Space Administration keep track of some of the large artificial satellites.

Novitt had set up a telescope in a vacant lot to see if he could spot a satellite during daylight. He picked up a bright object traveling too fast to be a satellite. It soon was joined by a second object. Fascinated, he watched the two objects descend until they nearly reached the ground. Taking his eye from the telescope he was startled to find that the apparent landing site was in front of a garage a short distance away. He hurried to the spot and found two winged ants.

He surmised the bright light he had observed was sunlight glinting from their iridescent bodies.

Research produced the fact that at certain times of the year male and female ants sprout wings to take part in an airborne mating ritual. The winged ants gradually group together into giant swarms, some estimated to contain as many as 37 million, to set up new ant colonies.

He wondered what these giant swarms would look like at night if they could glow. Perhaps ants could pick up enough static electricity to make them give off light.

To find out he glued 24 ants around the outside of a plastic ball. A static electric generator was connected to the ball with a thin wire. The ball was suspended from the ceiling of his home laboratory with threads.

Sure enough, when he cranked the generator the entire ball seemed to glow with a dim blue light. The bodies of the ants were discernible as brighter specks of light as the electricity drained off them into space.

"It's simply an emission of electric corona light," he explained.

The ball hovered, moved erratically as pulses of static electricity drained off with differing intensities from the ants. It also gave off a crackling sound. Novitt said a swarm of several million ants would emit a very loud, humming or buzzing noise.

"No new scientific principles are involved," he said. "It is rather an application of a natural combination of the principles of three sciences — meteorology, atmospheric electricity, physics, electrostatics of assembled small airborne objects, and entomology, gathering of insects."

He said the same is true of gossamer, the networks of cobwebs that float in the air during spider migration seasons.

The Denver experimenter believes there are at least four ways in which ants apparently can pick up a glow.

Individual ants become charged on the ground and then join a swarm, creating a mass of many different electrical charges.

Ants fly up through successively more highly charged layers of air.

Ants create their own static electricity by rubbing together in flight, much like a person does when he shuffles across a rug.

Ants often swarm right after a thunderstorm which has left the air saturated with a different kind of charge than there was just before the storm.

"The theory," he said, "logically explains many of the characteristics of the UFO phenomena such as materialization and disappearance, hovering and departure, glowing and pulsating lights of various colors, apparent high velocity rotation of the objects, varieties of shapes and sizes, humming noises, pitting of ground surfaces, scorching of vegetation, residues of chemical substances, seasonal appearance in late summer and Indian summer, and lack of communication with the airborne objects."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agnes Hatfield ran second in a Republican congressional primary in Maryland without even trying.

She: —Did not make a single campaign speech. —Did not spend a cent on her campaign.

—Endorsed another candidate in the same race. —Did not want to win.

Mrs. Hatfield says it all has to do with where your name is on the ballot — hers was first. She suggests her finish should "make people start thinking."

A professor of child studies at the University of Maryland, she ran in a field of four Republicans in Maryland's 5th District.

Lawrence J. Hogan, second on the ballot, won last Tuesday's primary. He will face Democratic incumbent Rep. Hervey Gilbert Machen in the general election.

"I did this as a test, and it apparently proved a point," Mrs. Hatfield said. "It doesn't make any difference whether a ballot is arranged alphabetically, or by the color of your eyes — but the first name on it apparently has an edge."

She proposed a study of the matter and suggested giving each candidate a certain percentage of ballots with his name first. Some states already follow this procedure.

Mrs. Hatfield, 45, who lives in suburban Hyattsville, Md., received 2,200 votes compared with Hogan's 5,134. The candidate she endorsed, William R. Martin, finished last with 201 votes.

Mrs. Hatfield has never held political office and doesn't plan to run for anything again. She said she is afraid she might win.

GI Home Loan Requests Jump

WASHINGTON (AP) — Appraisal requests for proposed dwellings under the GI home loan program jumped 21.2 per cent during August to a monthly high for 1966, the Veterans Administration reported.

The August total was 10,292, compared with 8,495 in July and 8,879 in August 1965. The previous monthly high for 1966 was 10,086 in April.

Applications for appraisals for proposed dwellings are considered an indicator of future construction activity.

The seasonally adjusted annual rate for appraisal requests for proposed construction also increased during August by 7.1 per cent, to 106,000 from rate of 99,000 based on July activity.

However, the number of construction starts under the GI program dropped to 3,627 in August from 3,927 in July and fell far below the August 1965 total of 4,838.

As a result, the seasonally adjusted annual rate for VA starts dropped to 35,000 during August, compared with 42,000 in July.

The number of requests for appraisals of existing dwellings decreased to 14,672 during August from 14,773 in July and 17,119 a year earlier.

Applications for home loan guaranty numbered 19,739 in August, up from 18,766 in July and 18,396 in August 1965.

Fiscal Reform Is School Need

MACKINAC ISLAND (AP) — Fiscal reform and more money are needed to meet Michigan's education needs, Dr. Ira Polley, state superintendent of public instruction declares.

Polley spoke here at a conference of the Michigan Association of School Administrators. He said:

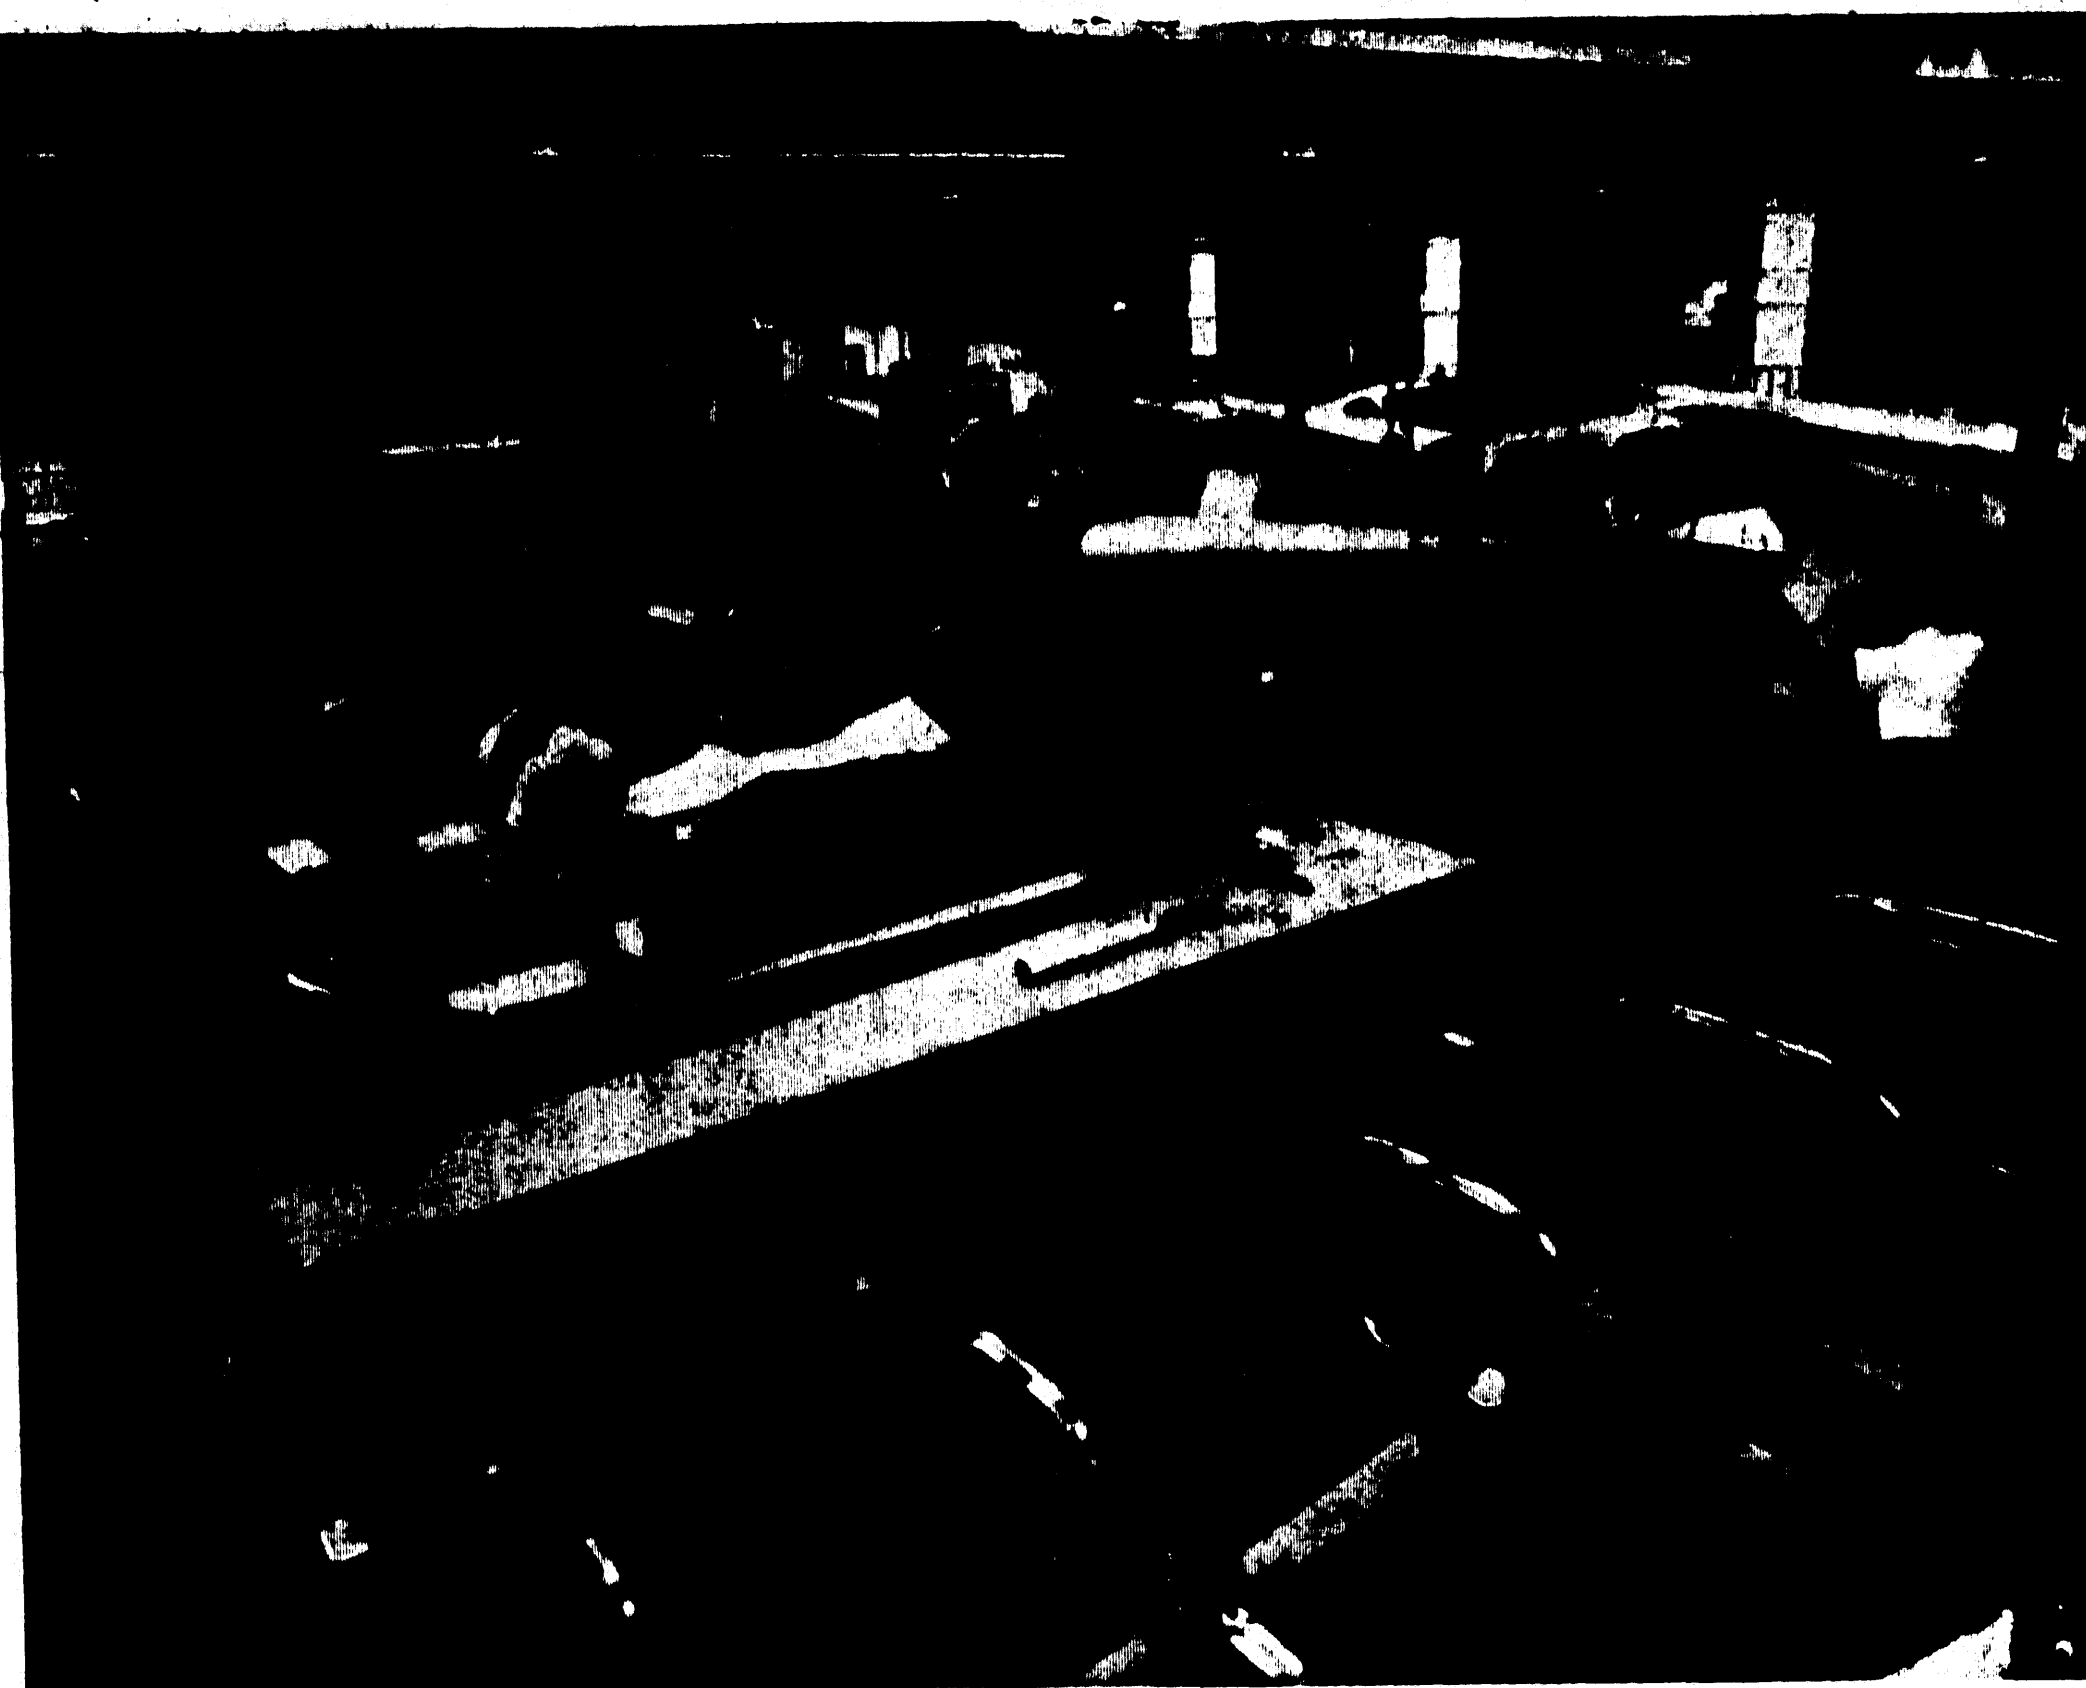

"If one were to consider for a moment what would happen if a downturn in the economy were to occur...it can easily be surmised that Michigan would face another financial crisis."

He called for a state income tax "to make available a more stable source of revenue."

Polley estimated the state's elementary and secondary enrollment grows by 40,000 to 50,000 a year. To provide adequately for the students, he said, "additional teachers, equipment, buildings, administrators and other staff members are going to be necessary."

"All of this," he said, "will require a significant increase in the amount of money we invest in education."

In another speech to the conference, Lt. Gov. William Milliken noted that more than half of Michigan's general fund budget is devoted to schools. Milliken said the state and federal governments have important roles in education, but added: "There is no substitute for local effort, local vision and local dedication to excellence."

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

When my child became nursery-school age, and would be "going out in the world," I had a jeweler make an identification tag—a chain and disc on which her name, address and phone number was engraved.

She puts her "GI dog tag" on every morning when she dresses.

I made sure she knew these facts, of course; but she rode in a car pool on occasion, and I wanted her to have identification in the event of an automobile accident when she was away from me.

When it was my turn to drive car pool, I carried with me a large placard with the names of my passengers, and the names and phone numbers of their parents.

I may sound like a terrible pessimist, but the responsibility of these small ones weighed on me.

I'm happy to say that no need has ever arisen, but I still like the idea.

Mama

The identification tag need not be expensive—gold or silver plated would be nice, but chrome plated or aluminum ones would serve the purpose just as well.

The idea of carrying the information about each child in the car pool is also wonderful.

I hope that other mothers will put both of your hints to use.

Janis L. Quist Bride Of LeRoy L'Huillier

Tall vases of gladiolus adorned the altars of St. George Church in Bark River for the 5 p. m. wedding of Janis Lynn Quist and LeRoy B. L'Huillier on Saturday, Sept. 17.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony was the Rev. Thomas P. Dunleavy. The St. George Choir provided traditional wedding music for the ceremony and as the bride and bridegroom lighted a memory candle at the altar of the Blessed Virgin they sang, "On This Day Oh Beautiful Mother." The candle was a gift to the couple from the bride's godparents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Konkel.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Quist of Bark River and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Roy L'Huillier, Marquette.

Tissue Taffeta

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of tissue taffeta with alencon and seed pearl motifs fashioned around the scoop neckline. Tiny covered buttons detailed the fitted bodice and long tapered sleeves and three matching motifs accented the bouffant skirt styled with a cathedral train.

For something old the bride carried a handkerchief which her mother carried on her wedding day; something borrowed was a six pence used by her sister, Mary Lou Nelson and something blue was the traditional blue garter.

A queen's crown held her elbow length double puff veil of nylon illusion and she carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations and green foliage.

Matron of honor for her sister was Mrs. Dale Nelson of Marquette and bridesmaids were Mary and Linda L'Huillier of Marquette, sisters of the bridegroom. They were attired in identical dresses of teal chrysomus peau de soie fashioned with scoop necklines, and long tapered sleeves. Matching pillboxes and gold metallic shoes completed their attire. They carried colonial styled bouquets of autumn colored mums centered with a lighted candle.

Flower Girl

Little LeAnne Swenor of Marquette, a cousin of the bridegroom, was flower girl and was attired in a gold peau de soie floor length dress with a matching headpiece. Her bouquet was the same of the bride's attendants.

Serving as bestman was Tom Martin of Manistique and groomsmen were Dale Nelson of Manistique and Roger Quist of Bark River. Seating the guests were David Bolm of St. Peter, Minn. and Paul Beauchamp of Manistique. Michael Britton of Wilton was ringbearer.

The bride's mother selected for the wedding a three piece gold brocade suit with gold accessories and a corsage of autumn mums. Mrs. L'Huillier wore a three piece mint green suit with matching accessories and was presented a corsage of autumn colored mums. Grandmothers of the bride and bridegroom were also presented corsages.

Reception

The wedding reception for 650 guests was held at the St. George Parish Hall following the ceremony with a dance later in the evening. Table decorations for the reception were made by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Albert Konkel of Bark River and the five tiered wedding cake was made by another aunt, Mrs. Walter Martin of Bark River.

Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Antone Cola and Mrs. Mary Olson of Bark River at the silver service; Miss Karen Berger of Daggett and Mrs. John Martin of Denver, opening gifts; Mrs. Lloyd Olson of Bark River, served the wedding cake and presiding at the punch bowl were Carol Arken, Judy Gasperick and Theresa Blahnik. Circulating the guest book were Linda and Lori Olson.

Following a wedding trip to Niagara Falls the newlyweds will make their home at 321 Pine St. in Marquette. The bride is a graduate of Holy Name High School and is presently employed at Wolff's Sewing Center in Marquette. Mr. L'Huillier graduated from Gravenet High School in Marquette and is employed as a Stereotyper in Manistique.

Special Meeting Of Country Club Ladies Tonight

The Escanaba Country Club Women's Golf League luncheon meeting, scheduled for Saturday, has been cancelled. The election of officers and committee chairmen which was to be held Saturday, will be held tonight, following the regular league dinner.

Members of the golf league who do not have dinner reservations for tonight are requested to attend the meeting following the dinner. The meeting will be called to order at 8:30 by Jeannette Manning, general chairman.

It is important that all members of the women's league attend this meeting, as officers for the 1967 season will be elected at this time. There are also some important announcements concerning league play for the remainder of the season that will be made. The success of next season's league play depends on a large attendance.

Poll Has Hare Out In Front

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit News reported Tuesday its pre-election poll shows two Democrats, Secretary of State James Hare and Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley, far ahead of their Republican rivals for re-election.

The News said a sampling showed 65 per cent of the voters prefer Hare, seeking a seventh term, to his Republican challenger, George Washington. The latter was credited with 34 per cent of the vote.

Kelley was given a 58-38 per cent lead over Lawrence B. Lincimer, former Republican state chairman.

The News said 3 per cent of voters polled failed to mark ballots for secretary of state and 4 per cent failed to mark for attorney general.

Two years ago Hare won re-election over Republican Allison Green with just under 63 per cent of the vote, and Kelley got 59 per cent in defeating Republican Meyer Warshawsky, a GOP nominee for the State Supreme Court this time.

Washington, a Negro, was credited with only 15 per cent of the Negro vote to Hare's 79 per cent. Six per cent indicated no choice.

Jaycees Give Parking Meters Fresh Paint Job

Sunday afternoon was a busy time for the Escanaba Jaycees. Following the Packer-Brown football game, the Jaycees began a project to beautify Ludington Street in Escanaba.

A fresh coat of paint was given each parking meter post in the city. The paint was supplied by the city and the time was donated by the Escanaba Jaycees.

Among those participating in the project were Bob Bink, president; John LaBranche, treasurer; Elmer Besson, secretary; Bill Feller, Dick Ducheny, Dan Schutz, Bob Hadlock, Ed Larche, Don LaVelle, Jim Verbridge, chairman for the project, Jim Cleereman, Earl DuMuis, Bill Biscorn, vice president, Bill Rodman and Dr. Don Fitch, directors, Russ and Bobby Fitch, Kelly Biscorn, Bill DeHaan and Harold Cloutier.

Immediately following the project a picnic was held at Ludington Park for the "painters," their wives and children.

Scout Camporee Will Be Held Sept. 23, 24, 25

The 1966 Fall Boy Scout camporee will be held Sept. 23, 24, and 25. The camporee is open to all registered Boy Scouts of the Red Buck District.

Registrations at Wilderness Park in Gladstone will begin at 7 p. m. Friday evening. The event will be a "walking" type camporee with the boys back packing all foods and equipment needed for the three day session. Scouts will spend Friday night at Wilderness Park and hike to Pioneer Trail Park in Escanaba on Saturday morning. Scoutcraft and skill events will be held throughout the day, climaxed by a Scout campfire on Saturday evening. Events will include fire building, first aid, compass course, distance and height judging, log chopping, camp procedure and physical fitness.

The "Walking" camporee is designed to acquaint and accustom Scouts to the thrill of outdoor living and to teach them proper methods of wilderness camping. Groups will participate and compete as "patrols". Each boy must pack and carry his own food and equipment needed as well as camp and patrol equipment. Church services will be held at the Pioneer Trail Park, Sunday morning.

$2 Million Spent In U.P.

Work Experience Project Beginning To Get Results

By DAVE ANDREWS

They call it "work experience."

Practically, it's a type of subsidized job training, but whatever the name, a program pouring $2 million in federal money into the Upper Peninsula is finally beginning to show some results, according to Lawrence Beltrame of the Michigan Dept. of Social Services.

Funded under Title 5 of the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964, the "work experience" program in the Upper Peninsula is designed to help welfare clients help themselves. It began last March 7 and will run through next March 7.

Between 750 and 1,000 families are expected to benefit.

"We're just beginning to see some real positive results," said Beltrame. "Some of our clients are moving now into other employment. We've also moved several people into MDTA (Manpower Development Training Act) programs who ordinarily couldn't have passed the tests."

Beltrame is District 3 supervisor of the program over Delta, Schoolcraft, Luce, Chippewa and Mackinac counties. Under him he has seven caseworkers. They are the spearhead.

Uses Family Heads

In a nutshell, the program takes heads of families off welfare rolls and puts them to work for their monthly checks in the hope they will gain enough "work experience" and good employment habits to eventually obtain a regular job on their own.

Unfortunately, it all isn't that simple. Not all welfare clients want to work for their living when they can get it free from the state. Others, no matter how much training and assistance they receive, won't amount to much.

That leaves the caseworkers with their first problem—screening the "potentially employable" welfare cases from the rest. In Delta County the job went to caseworkers Robert Koski, former Marquette Prison corrections officer, and Gary Andary, a native of Sault Ste. Marie who came back to the Upper Peninsula from a job at Bay City.

The eligibility requirements eliminate some from consideration. Persons must be over 21 years of age, the head of a family unit receiving unemployment compensation or Aid to Dependent Children, etc., and must want to work rather than wander. They may be either men or women.

Must Pass Physical

Meeting these qualifications, the individual must pass a physical examination and undergo job counseling talks with a caseworker. In the talks, the caseworker and client set up a mutually acceptable employment goal.

At this point, the Dept. of Social Services steps in to find the client a position compatible with the goal established. The individual is paid under terms of the program and given $50 per month extra to take care of expenses, such as transportation, lunches out, child care, etc., incurred because of the job.

Beltrame pointed out that while the clients work in regular public offices or agencies, they are not allowed to fill a job which would normally be filled by another full-time employee. Agencies must retain a full-time staff.

Help 208 Families

Sponsors do not pay salaries, but are asked to make regular reports on the individual in the program. Agencies in using program employees include St. Francis Hospital, Pinecrest Medicare Facility, Bay de Noc Community College, Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital, Lake Superior College.

Stromberg Will Be Honored On 75th Birthday

The Swedish Engineers' Society of Chicago, 503 Wrightwood Ave., Chicago, as a special event will celebrate the 75th Birthday of Austin Stromberg on Saturday, Sept. 24.

Stromberg was born in Escanaba Sept. 24, 1891 and graduated from the Escanaba High School, June 1909.

After 30 years in the automotive publishing business, he is now retired, and resides at 558 Elmwood Ave., Evanston, Ill. He was chairman of the Escanaba Night Centennial observance at the Swedish Engineers' Society in 1963 and has been a member of the Society for many years.

A feature of the event will be a reunion of four leading members of the Class of 1909, Dr. A. Martin Swanson, Rockford, Ill., Roy Carlson, Ft. Wayne, Ind., Olaf Olson, Chicago, and Austin Stromberg of Evanston.

Escanabans in the Chicago area are welcome to attend the festivities. Reservations can be made by contacting Folke Janssen, Mgr. Phone Lakeview 5-4775, Chicago.

Varnum Asks Erlandsen To Debate Issues

A challenge to debate on television has been issued by Charles H. Varnum, candidate for the House of Representatives in Michigan's 107th District to Einar Erlandsen of Escanaba. Varnum has offered to debate the candidate at a time and date of his choosing.

In his letter of challenge, Varnum says: "On Nov. 8, voters in Michigan's 107th Representative District will be asked to choose their State Legislative representative. I believe you will agree that the results of their decision will figure dramatically in the future of this district and the Upper Peninsula."

"It is important that voters be aware of the decision facing them in November. For this reason, I extend to you an invitation to join me in a televised debate before the residents of the 107th District."

Varnum said he proposes costs be divided equally between the two candidates. "I feel it is in the interest of good government that voters be made aware of the issues influencing the decision they will make on Nov. 8."

"Our present representative can no longer remain silent on the matters that concern all of us as citizens in the Upper Peninsula," Varnum said.

There are more rifle and pistol ranges in the United States than golf courses. Hunters outnumber golfers nearly two to one.

PFC. LONNIE McPhee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McPhee, Garden, is serving in Viet Nam with Co. D, 16th Armor, 173rd Airborne. A 1965 graduate of Garden high school, McPhee, 19, entered service Aug. 30, 1965, and completed basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo. He also was trained at tank school at Fort Knox, Ky., and as a paratrooper at Fort Benning, Ga.

MENOMINEE, Mich. (AP)—Arthur P. Madden, 76, a former chief investigator for the Treasury Department who paved the road to prison for Al Capone and some of his cohorts, died Monday. Madden was head of the intelligence unit of the Internal Revenue Service in the Chicago area when he retired in 1952 after a 35-year career as an ace gang buster.

Lammer PTA Has First Meeting Of School Year

The John A. Lammer PTA held its first meeting of the school year Monday evening. Mrs. Wesley Lehmann, president, opened the meeting with the group participating in the Flag Salute and singing of the Star Spangled Banner. Mrs. Douglas McEachern was presented with a past-president pin.

Louis Dietrich, principal, spoke to the parents, announcing that a noon supervisor had been hired and gave thanks to all the parents that helped out in last year's noon program. The new teachers were introduced to the parents.

An interesting and thought stimulating program entitled, "The Importance of Grades as Grades" was presented by a group of panel members under the capable chairman, Bob Barron. Other members of the panel group were: Mrs. Melba Bramer, Mr. and Mrs. Art Messier, Robert Haack, Mrs. Marlene McGovern and Mrs. June Hanson. Paul Vardigan, program chairman, arranged for the panel program. Although no definite conclusions were reached by the panel and audience on grading, it proved to be a very interesting and educational program for the parents.

Refreshment chairman was Mrs. Gerald Riedel, assisted by second grade mothers, Mrs. Robert Schrader, Mrs. W. J. Lavolette, and Mrs. Ernest Kleiman.

New Movie Code Scraps Taboos

NEW YORK (AP) — The motion picture industry has a new set of production guidelines, eliminating many specific taboos, but giving Hollywood's Production Code Administration, for the first time, the power to label certain films "recommended for mature audiences."

The new code, in effect, gives filmmakers more leeway in treating sex, sin and violence, but also gives production code officials more flexibility in deciding what will get its "seal of approval."

According to Jack Valenti, new head of the Motion Picture Association of America, the use of the "mature audience" tag says, basically: "Look, Mr. Parent, this may not be a picture you want your child to see."

Valenti, former special assistant to President Johnson, announced the adoption of the revised production code at a news conference Tuesday.

The Production Code Administration, now headed by Geoffrey M. Shurlock, provides the rules on film content and treatment for the guidance of the major American film companies. All subscribe to the code, but are not legally bound to abide by it.

The original code was adopted in 1930 and, because of changing times and changing morals, has been revised several times.

However, in recent years, the industry has been under increasing criticism as it has produced films more daring in content and treatment. Critics threatened censorship, local and federal. Film producers, at the same time, cried for more leeway to treat more mature material, especially to counter the more daring foreign film fare.

Revision of the code became the No. 1 chore of Valenti when he was named head of the MPAA last April.

The result was the new code which, Valenti said, has two main objectives: "to encourage creative expression by expanding the freedom that encourages the artist remains responsible and sensitive to the standards of the larger society."

"This is self-restraint, self-regulation and self-discipline. We want to make clear that expansion of the artist's freedom doesn't mean tolerance of license," Valenti said.

King Deplores Rights Bill End

NEW YORK (AP) — The death of the 1966 civil rights bill can only intensify Negro frustration, civil rights leaders said today, and several charged its failure grew out of a surrender to political expediency by the U.S. Senate.

"I want somebody in Washington to know that when that bill died a lot of faith in America died," said Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in Grenada, Miss. "It surely heralds darker days for this social era of discontent."

Dr. H. H. Brookins, president of the United Civil Rights Council of Los Angeles, called the Senate's action "a clear case of putting political expediency above the principle of the right of people to live where they choose."

His position was echoed by Floyd B. McKissick, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, who said the outcome marked "a trend of the Congress as well as the administration to sell black Americans down the river of political expediency."

Packaging Bill Hangs By Hair

WASHINGTON (AP) — Procedural decisions scheduled to be made today by the House Commerce Committee may determine if the controversial "Truth-in-Packaging" bill has any chance to pass this year.

The Commerce Committee voted 17 to 14 Tuesday to revive the Senate-passed measure which had been tabled last week. But it adjourned before starting actual consideration.

Supporters pin their hopes on adoption of procedures to speed consideration of the bill and on concessions to critics aimed at picking up enough votes to put it through.

"We breathed a little air into the lungs of the bill," said Rep. Leo W. O'Brien, D-N.Y., "but the baby is still very sick."

Rep. John D. Dingell, D-Mich., a chief supporter, said backers were prepared to make concessions to win approval.

But only 17 members—a bare majority of the 33-member committee—voted for reconsideration, and it is known that some of these 17 favor drastic cuts in the bill.

The measure—which would authorize federal acquisition of land along the Indiana shore of Lake Michigan for conservation and recreation purposes—was approved by the House Interior Committee after long study and hearings. But it must clear the Rules Committee to reach the floor for a vote.

The Senate passed the Indiana Dunes bill last year. The House version calls for an 8,242-acre park, including the existing 2,181-acre Indiana Dunes State Park if it is donated by the state. The Senate bill would authorize an 11,250-acre park, including the state preserve.

The differences will have to be reconciled by a House-Senate Conference Committee if the bill is passed by the House.

Wallace May Run For Presidency

KENTUCKY DAM VILLAGE, Ky. (AP) — The Deep South's concern over civil rights has seeped into the Southern Governors' Conference which customarily excludes it from the agenda.

Despite plentiful topics ranging from tourism to transportation, the news conferences of four governors were dominated by racial themes.

Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, denouncing what he termed federal intrusion into neighborhood school systems, said he is seriously interested in running for president in 1968 as an independent.

South Carolina Gov. Robert E. McNair proposed a resolution calling on President Johnson to soften federal guidelines on school integration. He said Monday night he had the support of half the Southern governors.

Michigan Meat Laws Enforced

By PHIL BROWN

LANSING (AP) — If such a case ever occurred, a cow that died of a broken heart would be branded unfit for human consumption under Michigan's meat laws, although the meat might be safely edible.

Michigan bans from the market any meat from an animal that dies of any cause except slaughter in a licensed slaughterhouse, whether the animal is diseased or not.

John Hartzell, supervisor of the State Agriculture Department's Food Inspection Division, said a major reason is that such an animal would escape the state's stringent before- and after-slaughter inspection.

In addition, said Hartzell and State Veterinarian John Quinn, the animal probably would not have been bled out nor refrigerated properly.

On the other hand, Hartzell noted, some animal illnesses do not affect the quality of the meat at all.

Under rigid veterinary inspection, he said, animals with these illnesses may be sent through the normal slaughter processes and sold for human use.

Uncertainty is the big problem in the case of an already dead animal, Hartzell said.

"The animal has to have a reason to die," he said. "It could be edible—but there is no indication to be certain."

An animal's death before slaughter represents a great loss to the farmer, Hartzell noted.

He said state law provides the farmer must bury or burn the animal within 24 hours or have a rendering company dispose of it for a small fee.

The rendering company skins the animal, dismembers it, grinds it, cooks it in a pressure cooker under intense heat, removes fat and grease, grinds it again and sells it as farm animal food supplement.

After this treatment, "It's perfectly sanitary," said Dr. Quinn, and it adds protein to the diet of a farm animal eating mainly grain.

In a current Grand Rapids case, the state charges animals which farmers thought were being taken to a rendering plant actually were being butchered and sold for human food. Five men are charged in the case.

Until last Jan. 1, some of Michigan's retail meat was not being inspected. But the 1965 Legislature passed a statewide meat inspection law designed both to protect the consumer and help the farmer.

Lack of inspection, legislators noted, could prevent sales of

FAA Boss McKee Sees Benefits In Supersonic Plane

DETROIT (AP) — America's projected supersonic transport plane will mean economic benefits from "thousands of new jobs" and from the standpoint of the nation's balance of trade, William F. McKee, administrator of the Federal Aviation Agency said here.

McKee told the Economic Club of Detroit the big plane, still in the planning stage, represents a "major industrial program" that will require enough contractors, vendors, fabricators and suppliers to populate a large city.

He said the plane would have a "salutary effect" on the balance of trade problem of the United States.

McKee said the export market could take about half the production of the plane and that over a 20-year period foreign purchases could result in a "gold inflow of many billions."

The FAA boss defended the supersonic transport against critics. He said that from a technical standpoint it is "completely practical."

He also said it was unfair to regard the plane as a "frill" for the jet set. He said that on the contrary the plane represents "just plain good business."

Bowles Hears Race Officials

DETROIT (AP) — Grand Juror George E. Bowles began his investigation into alleged doping and other illegal activity at the Detroit Race Course Tuesday by calling former State Racing Commissioner Berry Beaman as a witness.

Bowles also called in Robert Quirk, head of the Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau at the race track, and Robert Turner, who is in charge of the track's security detail.

Beaman testified voluntarily. He offered to appear before Bowles shortly after the Wayne County circuit judge was named a one-man grand jury Sept. 1.

Beaman said he also had offered to testify but had not been called before Oakland County Grand Juror Philip Pratt, investigating alleged wrongdoing at Hazel Park Race Track.

A Jackson industrialist, Beaman resigned as state racing commissioner last Aug. 1.

Ford Will Test Electric Auto In Great Britain

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. will test a prototype electric-powered car in England next year and later introduce it in the United States.

Company confirmation came Tuesday in the wake of speculation last week that Ford had made a breakthrough toward a battery-powered car capable of meeting traffic requirements.

Ford is experimenting with a lightweight, sodium-sulfide battery and said it might prove more economical than a gasoline-powered engine.

A Ford spokesman declined to be drawn into speculation when a battery-powered car might become competitive or how far one battery charge would take it.

Other sources, however, speculated one charge might give the range of a tank full of gasoline and that the car might be competitive with today's gasoline-powered vehicles within five years.

"That's one of the things we hope for but we don't know yet," said one Ford source with reference to one battery charge being the equivalent of a tank of gasoline.

If this happened, battery stations might displace gas stations.

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Sheriff Douglas J. Harvey of Washtenaw County, who has 10 years experience as a dirt track stock car driver, is planning a school to teach his men how to drive a car in a high speed auto chase.

Harvey said course will begin next month, using a runway at nearby Willow Run Airport.

The county board of supervisors asked Harvey to give his 50 deputies more drive training because of the death of deputy Leo Borders, 28, of Chelsea, Mich., last Aug. 3. He was killed while pursuing a speeding car.

A Governor Owns State Claims David

KENTUCKY DAM VILLAGE, Ky. (AP) — "A governor," said David Hall, "is somebody who owns the state."

"A governor gets his job by being a nice man," observed Lisa Perokovich.

Lisa and David are among the 7-year-olds in Mitti Roberts' second grade at the Gilbertsville, Ky., elementary school which is situated within 80 feet of the Southern Governors Conference.

The school was here before the meeting hall, and one result has been a strange mingling of recess and news conferences on the school lawn.

Many of the youngsters are convinced the governors came here just to see them. "To inspect the school," is the way one lad put it.

A newsman interrupted an exercise in modern math Tuesday to obtain the second-grade view of the goings-on.

Virtually all hands in the class went up when the youngsters were asked, "How do you tell the governors from the other people here?"

"They're the ones with the flowers and white things (ribbons) on their coats," responded Marty Osborne.

The governors might be somewhat disturbed to learn that several youngsters, when asked how a governor gets his job, replied, "The President named him" or "President Johnson picks him."

Ruth Ann Wommack said, "The people vote for him." Asked what a democracy is, David Hall allowed, "It's something like a lot of wars." Asked what a governor does, Tony Moore suggested, "He's the one who tells all the generals what to do."

When the class learned that the governor's wife is called the "first lady," it was Mary Jane Dedmon who explained why: "Because she is the first lady the governor asked to marry him."

McKee Is Named Seaway Advisor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Miles S. McKee of Detroit, Mich., a shipping executive, was sworn in today as a member of the advisory board of the St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corp.

Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor administered the oath.

McKee, 55, is vice president of the Wisconsin and Michigan Steamship Co. and is secretary of the Western Michigan Dock and Market Co.

He replaces Dr. N. R. Danielian, who resigned from the advisory board.

Members of the board are paid $50 a day when working. They are named for indefinite terms.

McKee, a native of Detroit, was graduated from the Detroit College of Law in 1937.

MANISTIQUE Economy Status Is Rotary Topic

A program on the American economy, the current stock market and trends was presented for Rotary Monday by William B. Hummer of a Chicago brokerage firm.

He predicted corporate earnings would be off in the coming year, and cited the effects of tight money policy. The decline of the Dow Jones industrial average is comparable to declines of 1937, 1946, 1957 and 1960, he said.

The market has been going at a fairly high rate of activity and is broader, with 25 million investors. The rate of decline has been five per cent and the rate of inflation 3.5. Demand continues extremely strong, despite tremendous efforts to curtail it.

The decline is due to high price of money (interest) due to unavailability of municipal bonds over stocks, tight money which historically has slowed the economy, forced sales by companies liquidating stocks.

Recent pessimism is as unjustified as earlier extreme optimism, Hummer stated. Investors in the past 35 years have done best with stocks in well-managed companies in essential industries, and by maintaining faith and holding stocks. The doctrine in Washington is that inflation is a necessary price of full employment, but many won't agree with the doctrine, he observed.

Sawed-Off Rifle Leads To Charge Against Two

Paul A. Olson, 21 of Lusten, Minn., and Darwin V. Meeter, 21 of Traverse City waived examination in Justice Court on State Police charges of illegal possession and transportation of a pistol without permit or license. Both have been bound to Circuit Court under bond of $300. The two were arrested in Doyle Township Sept. 17 on US-2. They had a sawed-off .22 rifle, converted to a pistol, in the back of the car.

State Police ticketed Richard C. Hardt, Jackson, for speeding.

Frank Lesica, 237 N. Maple was taken by ambulance to Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital at 9:55 p.m., Monday.

Harold Carlson, president of Local 4302, United Steel Workers of America, is in Atlantic City, N. J., this week attending the 13th bi-annual steel workers convention.

The VFW Auxiliary will meet Monday at 8 p.m. Delegates to the 14th district meeting at Germfask Sept. 24-25 are Mmes. Peter Kasbhorn, Ralph Deloria, Edward Jorgensen and Ivor Willock. Annual inspection here is scheduled Sept. 26 with Mrs. Rhea Ellis of Marquette in charge. Pot luck lunch will be served.

Lake Linden will make the longest football trip of any Upper Peninsula prep football team this fall, traveling to Olivet for a Saturday night game this weekend. . . . The contest was arranged this week to replace Lake Linden's previously scheduled game against Baraga which has decided to play out the remainder of the season against junior varsity teams. . . . That was a wise decision as the Vikings were trounced last weekend by the Hancock Jayvees, 40-0.

Kingsford, Escanaba's Saturday afternoon Great Northern Conference opponent, used a relentless ground attack in a 28-14 victory over Norway. . . . Leading the Flivver troops was Chris Alford, 265 pound veteran fullback, who pounded out 187 yards in 11 carries and scored two touchdowns.

Two Upper Peninsula teams were rated among the top 10 in their class in the first state football poll conducted by the Associated Press this week. . . . Ironwood was ranked sixth in Class B and St. Ignace third in Class C-D. . . . Munising and Kingsford were included among the top 20 in Class B.

Although Coach Bill Lueler's Michigan Tech Huskies scored only two touchdowns in their 13-0 opening victory over Alma, they dominated the game by a much greater margin. . . . Tech ramblled for 204 yards rushing and added 178 passing while limiting Alma to 16 on the ground and 20 in the air.

Fullback Ken Brown of St. Ignace, a 165 pound junior, reeled off 193 yards in 15 carries as the Saints knocked Soo Loretto out of the undefeated ranks, 26-2. . . . Brown has piled up 406 yards in three starts for St. Ignace this season.

Gerry Lutri, sophomore defensive tackle from Stephenson, suffered a leg injury in the first period of Northern's game at Akron Saturday night. . . . The contest, won by Akron 18-10, drew a crowd of 40,166, largest ever to attend an NMU grid game.

Chuck Severson is the new Riverside Country Club men's golf champion after a 4 and 3 victory over Willie Thomsen in the finals. . . . Thomsen is a four time Upper Peninsula golf titlist, capturing his last crown in the 1961 season when the tournament was held at Pine Grove in Iron Mountain.

The Menominee cross country team, slated to compete against Coach Henry Wylie's Escanaba Eskymos here Thursday, won their first dual meet of the season last week by defeating Iron Mountain, 15 to 49. . . . The Maroons had the first six finishers in the event, led by Jerry Smith in 10 minutes 57.1 seconds.

Jack Hooper of Iron Mountain snared his second straight Dickinson County golf championship by defeating Walt Siwa of Kingsford, 4 and 3, at the Norway Oak Crest course. . . . Hooper was this year's Pine Grove champion while Siwa was titlist at Oak Crest.

Art Saviluto, who has been golfing for only eight years, defeated former U. P. champion Walter Johnson in the finals of the Crystal Falls Golf Club men's tournament. . . . Saviluto, formerly of Ishpeming, won the last three holes of the match to trip Johnson who was U. P. men's champion in 1964.

Richard Dolack, Muskegon pharmacist and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Dolack of Carney, has been named an official for National Football League games this fall. . . . Dolack, 32, has been officiating college and professional games in recent years and began his whistle tooting career as a student at Ferris State College in 1951.

Tony Bukovich Jr., son of the Houghton veteran who was a popular figure with the Portage Lake Pioneers in the old days of the Escanaba Hawks, has joined the Green Bay Bobcats of the United States Hockey League. . . . Bukovich played with Johnson, Pa., in the Eastern League last season.

Crystal Falls, winner of the Floyd Barber Trophy as Upper Peninsula prep football king last fall, continues to have its problems this season. . . . Coach Dick Mettlich's Trojans suffered their second setback in three starts by bowing to Stambaugh, 36-14. . . . The Hilltoppers rang the bell with four touchdown passes while gaining 196 yards through the air. . . . Quarterback Jerry Margoni was on the throwing end of three of the payoff pitches.

Red Devils Take Top Place In Grid Poll; Holy Name Is Third

Ironwood stormed into first place in the second weekly Upper Peninsula high school football poll conducted by the U. P. Sportswriters' Association, drawing 11 first place votes and 145 points.

Coach Wayne Melchiori's Red Devils vaulted from the No. 2 spot last week on the strength of a 41-6 victory over Superior Cathedral. It was Ironwood's third straight triumph of the current campaign, coming on the heels of an unbeaten season last year.

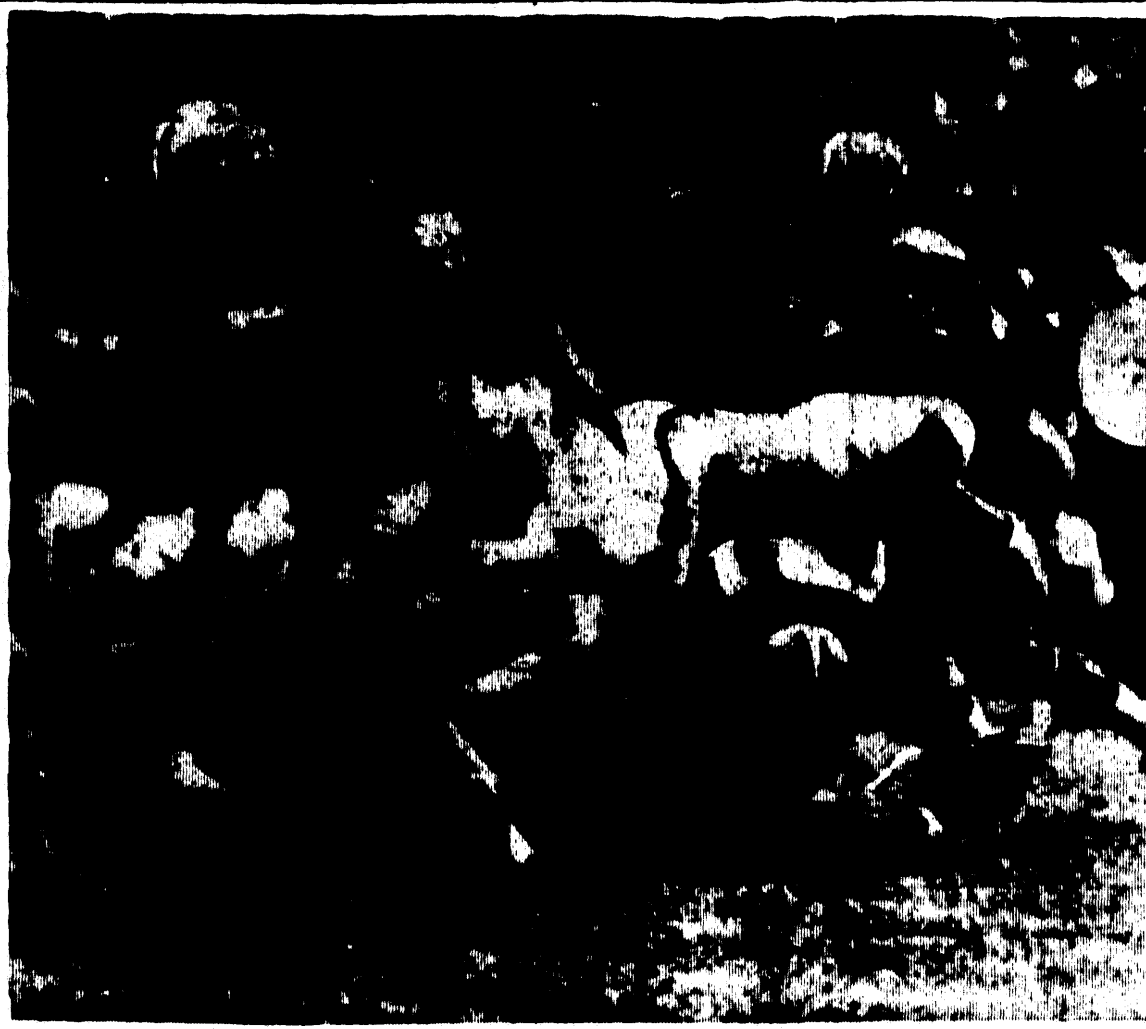

Negaunee, first week leader, skidded all the way down to 10th place this week after taking a 32-12 thumping from Marquette.

The Calumet Copper Kings, coached by former Northern star Wayne Sickler, took over the runnerup spot this week with 108 points, including one first place vote. Holy Name was third and Munising a tight fourth in the voting from 15 daily and weekly newspapers throughout the Upper Peninsula.

Rounding out the top 10, in order, were Stambaugh, Menominee, Wakefield, St. Ignace.

Packers Play Third Unbeaten NFL Foe

The defending NFL champion Green Bay Packers face their third straight undefeated opponent when the Los Angeles Rams visit Lambeau Stadium Sunday, Sept. 25. Kick-off is set for 1:30 CDT.

Both clubs stand atop the Western Conference standings with identical 2-0-0 records.

LeQuia Named League Prexy

Tom LeQuia, Powers-Spalding football and basketball coach, was re-elected president of the Big Seven Conference at the annual fall meeting.

Gary Gollakner of Alpha was named vice president and Don Bessie, Channing, secretary-treasurer.

The annual Big Seven holiday basketball tournament dates were set for Dec. 20, 21, 22 at Powers, with Carney serving as host school. Plans for adding track and field to the conference program in the spring were discussed.

Turner-Pellant Win Golf Event

Bob Turner and Emory Pellant teamed up for a 30 to win the best ball event in the Escanaba Country Club men's twilight league this week. Walt Nelson and Cliff Dawson were runnersup with 31.

Emer Swanson and Dave Andrews shot 38s for individual honors while Turner and Pellant had 39s, Dawson, Pellant, Roger Beauchamp and Al Taylor 40s.

Prizes were awarded to first through seventh place in each half, plus high point winner in the league and for each team. Wally Arntzen was the league's high point man with 28.

Emeralds Play Night Game At Negaunee Field

MANISTIQUE—The time of the Manistique Emerald football game at Negaunee Saturday has been changed to 8 p.m. at the request of Negaunee school officials.

Coach Ron Rubick's Emeralds, who rallied in the final period to challenge undefeated Manistique last week, will be seeking their initial victory of the season, Negaunee, coached by Lodie Morris, will carry a 2-1 record into the Great Lakes Conference clash.

Won't Be Available For Series

Oriole Rookie Pitcher Comes Through

By The Associated Press. A Manager Hank Bauer leads the Baltimore Orioles to ward their first American League pennant, it becomes increasingly evident that he won't be able to use his most effective pitcher in the World Series.

That would be rookie Tom Phoebus, the 24-year-old right-hander who pitched his second straight shutout in as many big league starts Tuesday night, blanking Kansas City 4-0.

The victory reduced the Orioles' magic number for clinching the pennant to three. Any combination of three Baltimore victories or losses by second-place Detroit wraps up the flag for the Orioles.

record with the consecutive shutouts in his first two starts and if the Orioles had listened to some of the youngster's neighbors, he might have been eligible to pitch in the Series.

Baltimore, in a bind for pitching with Steve Barber heading a list of injured hurlers, started looking around for mound help last month. A group of Phoebus' Baltimore neighbors picked the Orioles' offices, suggesting that Tom, a local boy, be called up from Rochester of the International League.

Instead Baltimore recalled Frank Bertina and after only one start, Bertina reported he had a bad knee, Phoebus, meanwhile helped Rochester to the IL pennant, striking out 207 batters in 200 innings.

When Rochester was eliminated in the playoffs, Phoebus was finally recalled. It was too late for him to be eligible for the Series but his two shutouts have kept the Orioles driving toward the flag, a goal that could be reached before the week is over.

In the only other American League game played Tuesday, Cleveland downed Minnesota 4-1. Chicago at New York, Boston at Washington and California at Detroit were all rained out.

York blanked Houston 3-0 and Atlanta defeated St. Louis 5-1.

Phoebus pitched a five-hitter, striking out seven. The Orioles pitching staff has managed only four complete games since Aug. 1 and the youngster has two of them. Dave McNally, ace of the staff, has the other two.

Phoebus was brought up after the roster went to a 40-man limit on Sept. 1. He is ineligible to pitch in the Series because he was not on the Orioles' 25-man roster Aug. 31.

Frank Robinson gave Phoebus all the support he needed with his 47th home run, a personal as well as club record. Robinson also had a double and took over the lead in the batting race by breaking a tie with Minnesota's Tony Oliva.

Robinson, trying for the Triple Crown, leads Oliva by a single point, 312 to 311. The Orioles' outfielder has a wide lead in the home-run and runs-batted-in races. He has 47 homers to Harmon Killebrew's 36 and has 114 RBIs to Boog Powell's 106.

Luis Tiant delivered a bases-loaded single, driving in two runs, and limited Minnesota to six hits as the Indians beat the Twins.

The Indians nipped Jim Perry for two runs without a hit in the first inning and Tiant went the distance for his 10th victory against as many losses.

Koufax Wins 25th For Third Season, Dodgers Keep Lead

By The Associated Press. Sandy Koufax has been a failure 38 times this season. But he doesn't mind, and neither do the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Koufax, who says he tries for a no-hitter every time he starts a game, made his 38th start of the season Tuesday night but again failed to keep his one-season no-hit streak intact.

The Dodgers, however, overcame that obstacle, annihilating Philadelphia 11-1 as Koufax pitched a five-hitter instead and became a 25-game winner for the third time in his career.

The victory enabled the Dodgers to maintain their 1½-game lead in the National League pennant race over the Pittsburgh Pirates, who whipped San Francisco 6-0.

Among a lengthy list of amazing marks Koufax has achieved, perhaps the most amazing is the record four no-hitters he has pitched in the past four years.

But with only three more chances — and possibly only two — Koufax' streak is dangerously near an end.

Koufax, who has lost only eight games, has done such a good job of holding the opposition to an absolute minimum that the Dodgers haven't noticed the absence of another no-hitter.

The 30-year-old ace leads the majors in victories, in earned run average with a 1.76 mark, in complete games with 24 and in strikeouts with 289.

He won't reach his major league strikeout record of 382, but he could top his high victory total of 26 and finish with an ERA lower than his personal low of 1.74. He also is just about assured of winning his fifth straight ERA crown.

In other NL games, Atlanta slipped into fourth place by defeating St. Louis 4-1, Cincinnati topped Chicago 6-3 in 13 innings and New York blanked Houston 3-0.

The Dodgers backed Koufax with a 15-hit attack led by Wes Parker, who drove in four runs with two singles and a ground-er. Ron Fairly knocked in three runs with a bases-loaded double in a six-run outburst in the fifth inning.

Vernon Law scattered eight hits as the Pirates dumped the third-place Giants five games from the top and just about out of the race. Willie Stargell drove in two runs with a pair of singles while Donn Clendenon and Jesse Gonder homered.

Wylie Has Three Vets

Coach Henry Wylie has only three lettermen on his Escanaba High School cross country team that will compete in its first event Thursday against Menominee.

Lone veterans on the squad are senior Bob Swenson, junior Rick Anderson and sophomore Jerry Duchaine.

The Eskymos have a new two mile course this year, located west of the high school.

Eddie Mathews backed Tony Cloninger's five-hit pitching by driving in two runs with a single and a double. Mack Jones added a home run to Atlanta's attack.

Cincinnati defeated Chicago with three runs in the 13th inning. Leo Cardenas snapped a 3-3 tie with a run-scoring double, and Gordy Coleman added a two-run single. The Cubs scored their three runs in the fifth, two on Ron Santo's bases-loaded single.

Baumers Clinch Highland Crown

It's all over but the shouting as far as first place is concerned in the Highland Twilight league race, but the dust will have to settle in next week's final matches before the other three positions are settled.

The Baumers with an eight point lead are cemented in the first spot, but the Turf Kings and the Has Beens are tied for second with 95 points. The Divot Diggers have slipped into fourth with 92 point total, and the W. R.'s are now in fifth with 88.

In the individual point race, Vern Ihlenfeldt leads with 26 points, followed by Dave Friets with 24½ and Roger Murray and Glenn Fleetwood with 24. Chuck Johnston follows with 23½ points.

Low scores in league play include Dave Friets and Jim Douglas 37, Ed Martinson, Jerry Sundquist and Jim Schultz 38, and Carl Hendrickson and Dick Nelson 40.

Golf ball winners were Bill O'Connell, Pat Gassman, Glenn Fleetwood and Kne Knauf.

Team standings: Baumers 108, Turf Kings and Has Beens 95, Divot Diggers 92, W. R.'s 88, Long Knockers 85½, Big Stickers 83½, Got Yas 83½, Super Valu 81, Hackers 78½, Wertz's Watusis 77, Hi Flyers 75½, Rum Dums 73, Barney's Beavers 69, Hot Shots 68½, Doug's Dubbers 64½, Earl-E Birds 60 and Team No. 18 35½.

Central League Elects Officers

RAPID RIVER—Julian Vandecaveye, Perkins, was elected president of the Central League at its 21st annual fall meeting here Tuesday.

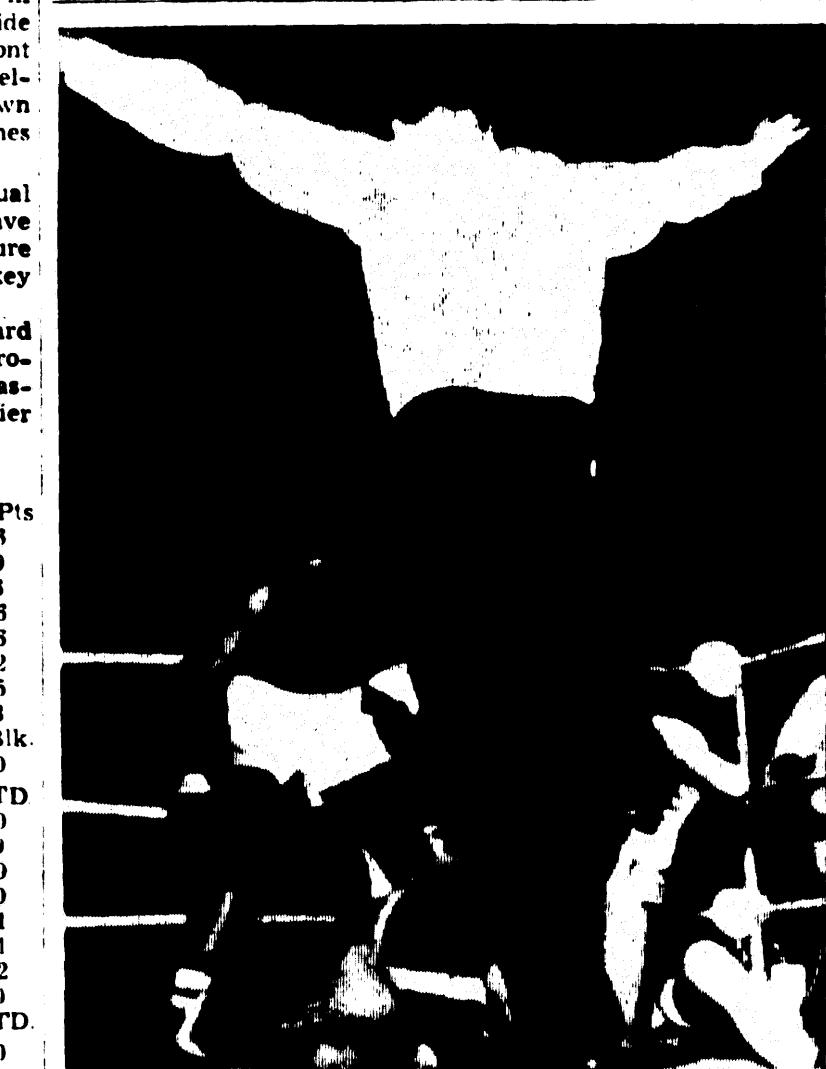

Other officers named were Dave Pelletier, Garden, vice-president and statistician and Norm Slough of Rapid River, secretary-treasurer.

The league cross country meet was set for Rapid River Friday, Oct. 14, at 3 p.m. Competing will be Eben, Trenary, Perkins, Rapid River and defending champion Cooks.

Grid Tickets Are Available

Season tickets for Escanaba High School football games are available for adults and students at the high school office. It was announced today by Harold Johnson, athletic director.

The Eskymos will play home games against Kingsford Sept. 24, Alpena Oct. 8 and Marquette Oct. 15.

Patterson Kayos British Fighter

LONDON (AP) — Floyd Patterson says he is on his way back to another title fight with Cassius Clay, but first he wants a crack at Karl Mildenberger.

Patterson knocked out British champion Henry Cooper in the fourth round in London's Wembley Stadium Tuesday night.

The former champion floored

Cooper for a three count in the third round and then dropped him for a count of nine in the fourth before finishing off the Briton with a left-right combination at 2:20.

"Every fight I have now I regard as one step towards another clash with Clay," Patterson said.

"I am now looking forward to a fight with Mildenberger. I think the winner of that one should have another title chance."

"Before Mildenberger fought Clay, I thought he would be just another warm-up for the champion. But I thought the German put up a gallant fight — much better than anyone expected."

"I thought even Clay was surprised. Mildenberger obviously hurt Clay with some punches."

Clay stopped Mildenberger in the 12th round of their world title fight at Frankfurt, Germany, Sept. 10.

Golfers Invade Seattle Course

EVERETT, Wash. (AP) — A tight little layout that wanders 6,100 yards through a shadowy forest will test golfers' touring professionals this week in a $50,000 Greater Seattle Open Tournament that will have two former winners gunning for top money of $8,000.

Missing from the list of Thursday starters will be former winners Jack Nicklaus and Billy Casper, but defending champion Gay Brewer Jr., and 1963 victor Bobby Nichols are entered.

An ailing knee forced the withdrawal of Dave Marr, 1961 Seattle champ.

Alternating between two Seattle courses in previous years, the annual tourney was brought 30 miles north this year to the Everett Golf and Country Club when other sites were not available.

Action begins today with a pro-amateur competition worth $5,000 to the leading professionals and the 72-hole Open starts Thursday over the par 71 course which is no place for anyone subject to claustrophobia.

Towering evergreens march in tight formation on both sides of most fairways, shouldering inward at places to add to the woes of swing-and-hope players.

Izzy Lang New Rushing Leader

NEW YORK (AP) — When they talked about Jim Brown's successor they mentioned Jim Taylor, Ken Willard, Bill Brown, Gale Sayers, Tim Brown. Nobody even thought of Israel A. Lang of Tennessee.

Lang, a third-string fullback with the Philadelphia Eagles at training camp, running behind Earl Gros and Tom Woodshock, leads the National Football League's rushers with 179 yards in two games.

When he opened against St. Louis it was only his second NFL start, but he gained 65 yards in 16 carries. Last Sunday, he rolled up 114 yards on 16 bursts, the only 100-plus game in the league so far.

Izzy, a 6-foot-1, 232-pounder with a mustache, holds a slim edge over Sayers, the Chicago Bears' wonder boy. He turned up the big play for the Eagles time after time against Atlanta.

Don Meredith's big passing day against New York gave the Dallas quarterback the lead on the basis of the involved rating system used by the NFL. Although Pittsburgh's Bill Nelsen was injured in the first period, he ranked second.

Tommy McDonald of the Los Angeles Rams took over the undisputed lead in the receiving department with a total of 14 catches for 174 yards although Jackie Smith of St. Louis led in yardage with 196 on 12 catches.

Gary Collins of Cleveland moved out front in the scoring race with 24 points on four touchdown passes. Four kickers followed him.

When White Men Came To Michigan

No Deer Were Seen By Schoolcraft

By LEE SMITS

Walk-In-The-Water, the first steamboat on the Great Lakes, left Buffalo on May 6, 1820, bound for Detroit on the first run of the season.

Among the passengers were Henry R. Schoolcraft and Captain David B. Douglass on their way to join Lewis Cass, governor of Michigan Territory on an expedition to the headwaters of the Mississippi. Michigan Territory included all of what are now Michigan and Wisconsin together with part of Minnesota where the Mississippi has its source.

Walk-In-The-Water steamed out into Lake Erie at 9 in the morning and two days later, May 8, docked in Detroit at midnight.

Schoolcraft was much impressed by the flourishing city of Detroit which had a population of 1,415, not counting soldiers and Indians. Schoolcraft had started from New York on March 5, journeying by stage coach, his entire trip, New York to Detroit, taking only 64 days.

One purpose of the Cass-Schoolcraft expedition was to confirm the loyalty of Indian tribes to the United States instead of Britain, which had taken over Canada from the French some 60 years earlier. However, the main idea in Schoolcraft's mind was copper. Copper had been found since pre-historic times along the western end of the Upper Peninsula. There was the report of the huge boulder of solid copper on the Ontonagon river, which Schoolcraft estimated to weigh 2,200 pounds when he got to it, after hundreds of pounds had been chopped off by Indians and white adventurers.

In the era of wooden ships copper was essential to shipbuilding, and most especially to the maintenance of masts. On May 24 the expedition left Detroit — Schoolcraft and two other "gentlemen," as they were called to distinguish them from the hired hands, traveling as passengers in the big freight canoes of the fur trade, thirty-five feet long, six feet wide, carrying, with six or eight paddlers and supplies, more than three tons.

At the start, approaching Grosse Pointe, a canoe paddled by French-Canadian voyageurs raced a canoe paddled by Indians. It was quickly demonstrated that the Indians were faster, for a short distance, but the voyageurs were more durable for the long haul.

For a hundred and twenty-two days, the expedition bucked the wilderness, traveling some 1,000 miles. From the journals of Schoolcraft and Capt. Douglass, we can form a rough idea of what wildlife populations were like in the Great Lakes region the first half of the last century.

The expedition came upon a land of Indians on Saginaw Bay, depending largely on wildfowl. Ducks and other game were smoked. Other accounts tell of a settlement of duck-hunting Indians near Tawas. At the mouth of the Au Sable, a camp of Indians had a sturgeon fishery and the explorers were treated to fresh sturgeon.

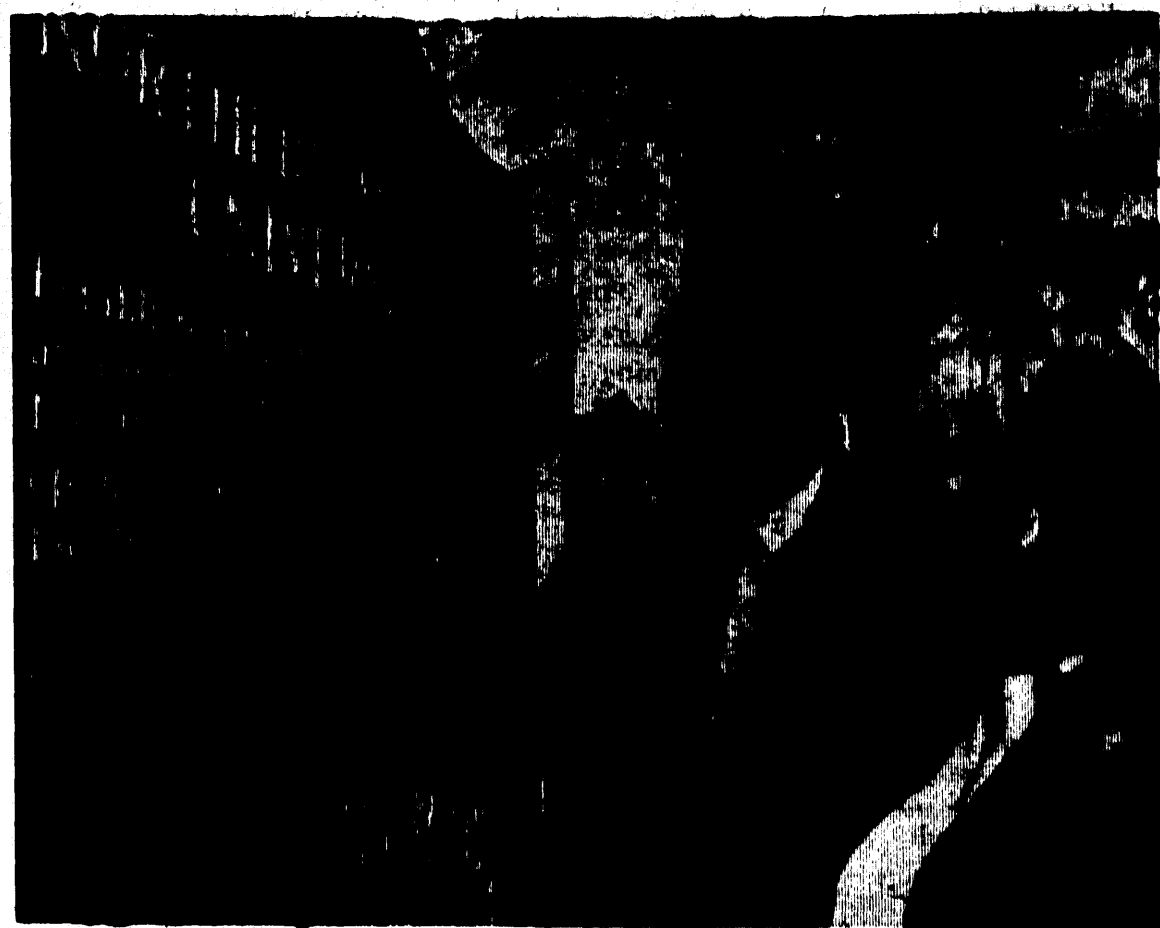

Passenger pigeons were encountered and harvested. On the shore of Lake Superior a bear was caught in a deadfall. Schoolcraft regretted that he was unable to spend a week or two surveying the mineral resources of the Ontonagon valley. This was out of the question, he explained, because of the danger of running out of provisions "in a country almost wholly destitute of game."

At no point in the journey from Detroit to the west end of Lake Superior were white-tail deer encountered, to judge by the daily journal entries. It seems probable that deer, which were abundant in the southern counties when the first settlers arrived, moved into the north about the time pine logging was finished. Old timers in Baraga County and on Drummond Island have told me that there were no deer in those areas until the latter half of the nineteenth century.

Indian warfare was still going on in 1820. Chippewas had pushed the Sioux westward out of the Upper Peninsula into buffalo country. The name "Sioux" is an abbreviation of a Chippewa word for snake. The Sioux is a Dakota. Fleeing the Chippewa, the Sioux reached the plains, acquired horses and became buffalo hunters. This new way of life transformed them into the most warlike of all the western tribes.

Schoolcraft reports that between Sioux and Chippewa country there was a strip of no-man's land about 200 miles in width, which became virtually a wildlife sanctuary, both Sioux and Chippewa hunters avoiding the region, for the sake of their scalps.

T. S. Francis To Be Chairman Of Lakes Commission

WASHINGTON (AP)—Thomas S. Francis will recite the oath of office as federal co-chairman of the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission today.

The agency will draft plans for revitalizing depressed areas in Upper Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin areas. Secretary of Commerce John T. Conner will administer the oath at a ceremony in his office.

State members of the commission will elect a co-chairman to serve with Francis, who joined the federal government in 1961 as a special projects officer for the Area Redevelopment Administration.

He was nominated by President Johnson for his new post on Aug. 18, while he was director of the Office of Development Companies for the Small Business Administration.

Michigan Body Lauds Enstrom

DETROIT (AP)—R.J. Enstrom, Corp., Mesquite, helicopter manufacturer, today was given the Michigan Aeronautics and Space Association's 1966 award for the "most outstanding contribution to the development of the aerospace manufacturing industry in Michigan."

Francis L. Blodgett, manager of the Roscommon County Airport, received an achievement award in aviation facility management. Mrs. Elvira T. Hauslein, St. Clair Shores school principal, was given the award for achievement in aerospace education.

Meat Hearings Are Postponed Until Oct. 27

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Preliminary court hearings for five men charged with conspiracy to violate state agriculture laws in the sale of meat were postponed Tuesday until Oct. 27.

The five were arrested Sept. 12 in raids on alleged illegal processing operations. They were to have appeared today.

Charged were John Thomas, 57; William L. Peterman, 33, and Roy Cooper, 31, all of Rockford, and Gerhard Ritsema, 31, and Edwin L. McIntyre, 24, both of Holland.

A grand jury investigation by Circuit Judge Stuart Hoffus is expected to be completed within 30 days.

Indict Wolfson On Stock Deal

NEW YORK (AP)—Industrialist Louis E. Wolfson, 54, has been indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of selling $3.5 million worth of unregistered stock of Continental Enterprises, Inc., in which he is a major stockholder.

Crux of the indictment Monday was the alleged sale of the stock without filing federally required registration statements.

Named as codefendant was Elkin B. Gerbert, 48, a Wolfson aide and a Continental vice president. Their arraignment was scheduled for next week.

U.S. Atty. Robert M. Morgenthau described Continental as a firm "spun off" some years ago from Wolfson's Capital Transit, which owned the Washington, D.C., transit system.

Continental leases and operates theaters and is involved in film making. In 1960, Continental acquired licensing rights to "Propel-Pak," a chocolate drink using an aerosol process. Propel-Pak was promoted through Continental in 1960 and 1961, the government said, and Continental stock went from $2.75 to $3.50 a share.

By January 1962, the government contends, Continental stock was back at $2.75 a share.

Meanwhile, Morgenthau said, Wolfson's group sold 650,000 shares of Continental stock for a $1.5 million net profit, and Gerbert netted $125,000 from the sale of 33,000 shares.

Civil Rights Bill Up To Voters

WASHINGTON (AP)—The possible revival of the administration's civil rights bill, born and buried in controversy, seems to rest on any verdict the voters give in November on open housing.

The fatal symptoms of some members' reluctance to be counted on the housing section combined with doubts about its constitutionality to kill the House-passed measure on a 52-41 Senate vote Monday.

This was 10 short of the two-thirds majority of those voting required to invoke the Senate's cloture rule to limit debate on a motion by Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., to bring the measure up officially. After the cloture effort failed, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield shelved the bill.

The vote on a similar move last Wednesday was 54 to 42.

But Monday's result was by no means a reliable indication that the bill—with its provision outlawing racial discrimination in about 40 per cent of the nation's housing—could have commanded a majority vote for final passage.

Builder Permit Law Challenged

LANSING (AP)—A half-dozen small contractors from southwest Michigan are challenging a new state effort at licensing home building or improvement contractors as unconstitutional.

They filed suit in Ingham County Circuit Court this week challenging the 1965 law aimed at licensing contractors who build, maintain or repair houses.

The law, aimed at bringing maybe 20,000 contractors and salesmen under state regulation, took effect Sept. 1.

Because of procedural snafus, the first license certificate is yet to be issued, although more than 11,000 applications have been received.

The first such certificate may not go into the mail much before Nov. 1 said Toby David, a spokesman for the State Department of Licensing and Regulation.

But postcard acknowledgments of the applications can serve as interim licenses, he said, adding:

"They are technically licensed as soon as application has been filed, accompanied by proper fees, unless and until the application is denied."

The Legislature in 1966 toned down the terms of the 1963 act, and postponed its effect until Sept. 1.

Five Men Fined For Conservation Law Violations

Four Delta County men and another from Marquette have been fined after pleading guilty to conservation law violations in three separate justice courts.

Neil R. Carlson, 29, of 914 S. 13th St., and David P. Kiesel, 25, of 1100 5th Ave. S., each paid fines of $20 and costs of $7.50 when arraigned before Justice A. J. Mortier of Gladstone on a charge of taking more than the legal number of teal.

Conservation officers said the men were arrested on Little Bay de Noc with the assistance of a federal Fish & Wildlife service agent and found in possession of 10 teal. Possession limit was eight.

James D. Novak, 19, of Rte. 1, Ensign, and Don P. LaBumbar, 18, Rapid River, each were fined $50 and costs of $7.50 by Justice R. S. Davis of Gladstone on a charge of using an artificial light in attempting to locate game animals. Conservation officers said the youths were carrying a 22 rifle when arrested at 12:30 a.m. Sept. 16. Justice Davis suspended payment of $25 of each fine.

John G. Gellarsch, 13, Marquette, was charged with possessing a shotgun in a game area without a small game license. He pleaded guilty before Justice George Fezzy of Marquette and was assessed fine and costs of $12.

About SAFETY

AND YOU'RE THINKING OF

SAFE OIL HEAT

The homeowner must give considerable thought to the heating fuel used in his home . . . is it economical . . . is it efficient . . . is it clean . . . IS IT SAFE?

Choose OIL HEAT and the answer to all these questions is "YES!" OIL HEAT is economical, efficient and clean; and most important . . . IT IS SAFE. OIL burns completely in its own sealed combustion chamber . . . it is a clean, odorless liquid that can easily be seen . . . a liquid that will extinguish a flame plunged into it. With SAFE OIL HEAT, homeowners can rest assured.

Think about safety when you select a heating fuel and you're thinking about SAFE OIL HEAT!
